Greatest Soviet Nuclear Blast Reported By AEC

Equals Millions Of Tons Of TNT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission reported today the Russians have set off their greatest nuclear explosion yet. It was described as in the range of millions of tons of TNT.

The size of the blast would indicate it was a hydrogen bomb burst.

The AEC announcement said the current Russian tests indicate "an increasingly intensive effort by the Soviet government to develop their nuclear weapons potential."

Text Of Statement

The text of the AEC statement:

"Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, announced today that another explosion had taken place in the current Soviet test series."

"Following the policy of reporting to the American people information of significance concerning Soviet weapons tests, Mr. Strauss said that this explosion was the largest thus far in the U.S.S.R. and was in the range of megatons—a megaton represents the explosive equivalent of one million tons of TNT.

Efforts Intensified

"The Russian tests indicate an increasingly intensive effort by the Soviet government to develop their nuclear weapons potential."

Ordinary fission-type atomic blasts normally are measured in kilotons, i.e., thousands of tons of TNT, while fusion blasts have been measured in megatons.

The most recent previous AEC announcement of a Russian nuclear explosion came Nov. 10, part of the 1955 series being conducted by the Soviets.

The first United States announcement of a Russian atomic explosion came Sept. 23, 1949 and others have followed from time to time.

National Guard Ordered Back To Struck Plant

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 23 (AP)—Gov. Craig ordered 85 National Guardsmen to report for patrol duty tonight at the Perfect Circle Corp. foundry in New Castle because of a new rash of strike disorders.

The troops from Connersville, 30 miles southeast of New Castle, were sent in only six days after the last of the previous patrols were sent home.

Gov. Craig had said only yesterday that a wave of window smashing and shootings in and around New Castle were "regrettable" but didn't justify sending troops back.

But, after 10 windows were smashed in the foundry early this morning, Craig telephoned Mayor Paul F. McCormack of New Castle, offering to resume troop patrols. The governor immediately called out the Connersville company after McCormack wired Craig he would accept the offer.

Tanks Ordered To Scene

Guard officers said both tanks and half-tracks were ordered to the strike scene along with an armored troop carrier.

The called-up troops, members of Co. D. 152nd Infantry Rgt. are under command of Maj. John Anderson, Shelbyville. Over-all command of the patrolling will be in the hands of Col. Marvin Evans, Evansville.

The troops numbered only 25 when patrols were ended a week ago, and observer teams were ordered in to keep a watch for any such violence as the Oct. 5 riot at the foundry.

Craig's office said he decided the troops might be needed again on the basis of reports he received from the guard observers.

Troop concentrations, first sent in the night after the riot, at one time reached almost 1,000 in New Castle, Hagerstown and Richmond, and the Guardsmen operated under a limited martial law for 10 days in October.

Negotiations Recessed

The resumption of troop patrols came as CIO United Auto Workers and company negotiators met in Chicago for a second straight day, then recessed until further sessions Saturday and Sunday.

The negotiations were moved to Chicago Oct. 31 after union officials protested they wouldn't take part in any negotiations "in the shadow of tanks and fixed bayonets."

Perfect Circle said a plant guard fired shots over the heads of six or eight men who threw stones and broke 10 windows in the New Castle foundry early this morning.

Two nonstrikers also reported shotgun blasts fired through windows of their homes, pushing the total of such incidents this week to seven.

Farm Problem "Non-Political," Benson Asserts

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson, confident of a "bright future" for farmers, said today he believes nobody should make a political football out of the farm problem.

"The worst part of our adjustment is behind us," Benson said.

He made two speeches here in quick succession—one to the National Grange convention and the other to the Chamber of Commerce's Farmers' Club.

The grangemen applauded Benson when he declared he would "never knowingly advocate or support any policy or program which I believe is not in the best interests of our farmers and fair to all of our people—regardless of political pressure."

Bipartisan Legislation

The secretary said farm legislation should be bipartisan, and no farm program should ever be manipulated to serve partisan political purposes.

"I wouldn't remain in this hot spot for 24 hours," Benson told the businessmen, "if I didn't believe that farmers want to produce for a free market, not for government warehouses. I can't imagine any man in his right mind wanting to be secretary of agriculture. But I consider it a privilege to serve my country."

Rules Out High, Rigid Props

Benson said he regards the Agricultural Act of 1954 as a good start, but believes more legislation will be needed. He told both groups he would consider any suggestion to help the farmers, except a return to high rigid price supports.

"The answer is not to go back, but forward," he said. "The argument over rigid versus flexible price supports was overplayed. All the decline in farm prices we've had up to this fall's harvest took place under rigid supports.

"The rigid versus flexible support problem is important because of the principle involved, but it is only a small part of the total problem."

N. Y. Traffic Ticket' Collection Tour Planned By Gypsy

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP) — A magistrate granted a 70-year-old Gypsy a month today to tour the South and attempt to persuade other tribesmen to pay off 1,500 traffic tickets issued them here.

Joe Uwanawich, the Gypsy, already had pleaded guilty to ignoring 22 tickets. He came to court for sentencing and a hearing on 29 other tickets.

He told Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh, however, that he had obtained $320 from three Gypsies to pay 35 tickets issued to them.

If he could tour the South, he said, he could persuade many more Gypsies who got tickets while in New York, to pay up. He mentioned Chattanooga, Atlanta and New Orleans in particular.

Magistrate Murtagh granted him a month's stay but warned he would have to "get a great deal more money" than the $320 to get a better break on his own case.

Most Of Country Has Thanksgiving Weather

[By The Associated Press]

Brisk weather in the Thanksgiving tradition covered most of the nation Wednesday.

It was cold in most of the northernmost states and cool across the middle belt.

The Pacific Northwest had rain along the coast and snow at higher spots inland. Burns, Ore., had five inches of fresh snow. Mt. Shasta in northern California also had a five-inch fall.

15,000 Homeless In Colombia Flood

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia, Nov. 23 (AP)—Seventeen ports along the Magdalena River were under flood waters today and more than 15,000 persons were homeless.

The communities are on the lower part of the 850-mile-long river, Colombia's largest. Steady rains over many days forced the river over its banks in the worst flooding in a half century.

Red Cross, navy and air force rescue teams evacuated more than 8,000 persons. Helicopters were used to rescue many.

Israel Plans Protest

JERUSALEM, Israeli Section, Nov. 23 (AP)—Israel has asked its U.N. delegation to submit "a strong protest" to Security Council members at the "latest series of acts of aggression by Egypt and Jordan," a foreign ministry official said today.

Federal Action To Curb GM Urged By O'Mahoney

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said today that unless the government acts General Motors will attain complete domination of the automobile industry. He urged strengthening of the antitrust laws.

Presiding over a study of General Motors Corp. by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, O'Mahoney said the evidence to date indicates that "control in a very high degree now exists in those who manage General Motors."

"If we don't have regulation by government we will have control by General Motors," he asserted.

O'Mahoney said auto dealers are being required by GM zone and district managers to buy more cars than they can sell on a sound financial basis.

He said manufacturers of automobile parts, who have been in business 30 to 40 years, are finding themselves "squeezed out of the market."

The subcommittee is being "flooded" with complaints from the dealers, O'Mahoney reported, and many say they are "on the brink of disaster."

The senator added that these dealers are forced to grant long terms for repayment on new cars and "exaggerated exchange values" on old cars traded in.

There was no immediate comment from General Motors. But earlier this month Henry M. Hogan, GM vice president and general counsel, suggested the investigators ask the dealers "how much they've made in the last five years."

If the dealers are hurting, he said, "that's poverty with a ham under your arm."

Eden Awaits Opportunity To Visit U. S.

Wants To Review All Allied Policies With Eisenhower

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden would like to visit Washington soon to review thoroughly with President Eisenhower all Allied policies in Europe, the Middle East and Asia, an aide said today.

Eden told a group of visiting U. S. congressmen he would be delighted to make the trip if an early opportunity arises, the aide said.

But he stressed that no official step has been taken by either the British or U. S. governments to arrange a transatlantic trip by the Prime Minister.

Mansfield Urged Visit

The seven American congressmen, led by Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), had urged Eden to come to Washington for a talk with the President.

It is assumed by government officials here that the congressmen will inform the administration in Washington of Eden's reaction to their suggestion.

Any arrangement for a meeting between the President and the Prime Minister undoubtedly will depend on the state of Eisenhower's health, Eden's aide said. The British leader was said to be well aware that the President probably is not in a position at this moment to plan far ahead or to commit himself to exacting consultations.

Macmillan May Come, Too

If Eden does fly to Washington, he will be accompanied almost certainly by British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan.

That would mean U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles would participate in any discussions on foreign affairs that may be arranged.

The informant said if a meeting should be scheduled the most convenient time for it on the international diplomatic calendar would be in the late winter—perhaps in February.

A Soviet delegation is due to visit Britain next spring.

Sen. Kefauver 'Inclined' To Run

STONEWALL, Tex., Nov. 23 (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee said today he is "inclined to make the race" for Democratic presidential nominee in 1956 but is not yet ready to announce his decision.

Visiting at the ranch of Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson, Kefauver said he has business to attend to and people to talk with before he can say finally whether or not he will seek the nomination.

He said an announcement should be forthcoming by late December or early January and that an earlier report that he would reach a decision by early December was in error.

At a press conference, Kefauver insisted he had not come to visit Johnson "to further my personal political ambitions."

"I want to wholeheartedly endorse Sen. Johnson's 13 point program," Kefauver said, referring to a legislative program projected by Johnson in a speech at Whitney, Tex., Monday night calling for more liberal social security, more conservation of natural resources and a better deal for the farmers.

House Unit Probes Fund For Republic

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Chairman Walter (D-Pa) said today that the House Committee on Un-American Activities is investigating the Fund for the Republic, an educational organization.

Walter said committee investigators have been checking on the Fund's activities ever since what he termed its criticism of Congress for having branded the Communist party as an international conspiracy.

He said public hearings based on the investigators' findings probably will be held shortly after Congress recovenes in January.

Walter also said the committee will go to Chicago in mid-December to conduct hearings on charges of Communist infiltration of the National Labor Relations Board.

Brazil Congress Seen Imposing State Of Siege

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Congress rushed action today on a bill imposing a state of siege throughout Brazil to bolster the regime of provisional President Nereu Ramos.

Final passage of the measure authorizing modified martial law and suspending many rights guaranteed by the constitution was expected by tomorrow.

The deputies this afternoon voted 162 to 69 that the final vote should be a standing one instead of by rollcall. This was considered a test of the bill's chances and apparently confirmed that a majority supports it.

Court Might Back Cafe

The avowed purpose of the bill's sponsors is to prevent Joao Cafe Filho's re-installation in the presidency which might be ordered by a Supreme Court interpretation of the constitution.

Congress yesterday rejected Cafe's bid to resume the functions of the presidency and ruled he is still disabled by the heart attack which caused him to take sick leave Nov. 8.

His attorneys then asked the Supreme Court for a special writ authorizing his return to office and a writ of habeas corpus to free him from virtual house arrest imposed by the army yesterday when his home was surrounded by troops and tanks. Today the soldiers were withdrawn from around the apartment house where Cafe lives in the Copacabana district, but 50 federal police remained.

Revolution Feared

The petitions on Cafe's behalf were assigned by the court today to two justices for study, the first routine step in the judicial procedure.

A majority of Congress, backed by War Minister Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott and the army, appear determined to bar Cafe's return, suspecting that his supporters aim at a revolution to prevent President-elect Juscelino Kubitschek's inauguration next Jan. 31.

American Soldiers "Unpolish" Shoes To Meet New Rule

BERLIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—American soldiers in Germany are hard at work unpolishing their shoes to keep in good grace with the top-kick.

A new regulation from headquarters at Heidelberg said shoes henceforth will be tan or russet.

Most shoes in the European command have been polished darker than that. For most officers the average shade is deep cordovan.

The regulation was described by officers here today as intended to bring about a uniform color.

Soldiers with extra pocket money have bought new shoes.

AEC Won't Pay Dixon-Yates

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission today repudiated the Dixon-Yates contract altogether, serving notice it does not feel obligated to pay anything under the now dead power pact.

The Eisenhower administration some time ago canceled the contract it had the AEC sign with private utilities to feed power into the Tennessee Valley Authority area. But the cancellation had left open the question whether the government would pay the Dixon-Yates group for expenses incurred prior to the contract's end.

Today's announcement came after government lawyers studied contentions of the contract's critics that the whole thing was invalid because of an illegal "conflict of interests." The critics held that in effect Adolphe Wenzell, New York banker, had sat on both sides of the table—the government and private utilities sides — in talks leading up to the contract.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss announced today the AEC, on advice of counsel, "has notified the Mississippi Valley Generating Co., that its power contract of Nov. 11, 1954, with the United States is not an obligation which can be recognized by the United States."

Steps To Assist Hard-Hit Areas Urged By Clague

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, said today that private initiative will have to do much of the job of improving conditions in low-income areas.

Federal action also is essential to relieve unemployment in hard-hit industrial areas and to improve conditions in distressed farm sections, Clague said.

But he told a Senate-House Economic subcommittee the federal government cannot alone ease the sore spots in a generally prosperous economy. State and local agencies—public and private—will have to pitch in, he said, and a "major part of the solution will have to be contributed by private initiative."

120 Labor Surplus Areas

Earlier Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), the subcommittee chairman, said a Labor Department survey had found 26 major and 94 smaller areas had a substantial labor surplus in September. He said these pockets contained 500,000 of the two-to-three million persons then looking in vain for work.

Clague testified on the last day of hearings called by the subcommittee to devise methods of bringing relief to low-income groups. The Labor Department official said more than 2½ million nonfarm families had an income of less than $2,000 last year.

Farm Aid Bill Proposed

While current figures are not available, the Commerce Department estimated earlier this year that 41 per cent of American families have incomes of $5,000 a year or more—and 55 per cent receive at least $4,000.

Sparkman said the subcommittee would hand Congress a report for use in working up corrective legislation next year. He already has proposed a bill to provide federal aid for family-size farms. Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) has prepared another to aid distressed areas.

No Paper Tomorrow

The News will not be published tomorrow due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

Washington Taken To Task By Critics When He Proclaimed Thanksgiving Day

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — No matter what he does, a U.S. President runs into criticism.

George Washington even got rapped for proclaiming this new nation's first Thanksgiving Day.

The Boston "Herald of Freedom," an anti-Federalist paper, gave the anti-Thanksgiving view:

"The President can have nothing to do with the people, but through the government of the federal states."

If Washington wanted to follow the pattern set by the Pilgrims, the Herald grumbled, he should have "addressed himself to the supreme executives of the several states and recommended it to them to appoint a Thanksgiving upon one particular day."

Washington paid no attention. He went right ahead and was thankful on Thursday, Nov. 26, 1789.

Washington didn't proclaim another Thanksgiving until 1795, in February, this time, and for several years thereafter the day bobbed around uncertainly from one month to the other.

The National Geographic Society which has done some research on the subject, says Sarah Hale, who wrote "Mary Had a Little Lamb?" deserves credit for making Thanksgiving a national holiday. As editor of the influential Godey's Lady's Book she pounded away on the idea for 20 years, until Abraham Lincoln gave in.

He set aside the last Thursday of November as a day of "humble penitence for our national perverseness and disobedience," with a special plea to the Almighty to "heal the wounds of the nation."

With a little juggling of dates, Presidents have been proclaiming Thanksgiving ever since. Franklin D. Roosevelt experimented by choosing the next-to-last Thursday for the holiday, but Congress later decided it should be celebrated on the fourth Thursday.

Strictly speaking, though, this country still has no legal holidays. The states officially declare them, and that includes such universally observed days as Christmas and New Year's.

The Geographic turned up one state executive who gave a reverse twist to Thanksgiving. When Grover Cleveland proclaimed a Thanksgiving in 1893, the year of the panic, he recalled past bounties and ignored present woes.

Gov. Davis H. Waite of Colorado thereupon wrote his own proclamation, listing things not to be thankful for: Heavy farm mortgages, unemployment, a drop in land values.

Second Term Question May Be Discussed

First Political Talks Since Heart Attack Set Up By President

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Nov. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower set up today his first full-fledged political conference since his Sept. 24 heart attack—a meeting Monday with Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

Whether the two top men in the GOP will get into the intriguing topic of a second term for Eisenhower is an open question.

Presidential press secretary, James C. Hagerty said only that, "I wouldn't think so." But that by no means slammed the door on an exploration of the President's 1956 intentions.

In any event, Eisenhower is on his way back to a decisive role in Republican party affairs. And soon will be doing business again at the White House in Washington.

On this Thanksgiving eve, the President had reason to be doubly grateful:

Health Improves Steadily

Eisenhower's health seems to be improving steadily, with no setbacks. His doctors so reported this morning.

Accordingly, the President set up a schedule running through mid-December, which goes like this:

Nov. 28—The conference here with Hall. Hagerty said he assumed there would be a discussion of "matters dealing with the Republican party." By that, he added "I mean politics."

Dec 3—Visits here with Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California and House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts. Hagerty said these will deal with legislative program and the State of the Union message the President presents to Congress early in January.

NSC, Cabinet Meetings Set

Dec. 8-9—A repeat of this week's meetings with the National Security Council and Cabinet at the President's mountain lodge near Thurmont, Md.

Dec. 10—A return to Washington for X-rays and fluoroscopes at Walter Reed Hospital to determine whether increased activity has resulted in any enlargement of Eisenhower's heart.

Dec. 12—The annual conference at the White House with Republican leaders from Congress on the State of the Union message and legislation.

Dec. 13—The usual follow-up with congressional chiefs of both parties on foreign affairs and military aspects of the message and program, then a trip back to Gettysburg.

Dec. 17—Another complete examination by the renowed Boston heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, probably here in Gettysburg.

From there on, the program has not been worked out. But Hagerty did say that, "The family plans Christmas at the White House."

Tower Refugees Back On Shore

BOSTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Fifty-two tired, bearded refugees from the Texas tower were back on land today and headed home for Thanksgiving, grateful for the combined efforts that brought them safely to shore.

Of the group, 37 were visitors who went out to the manmade radar island 110 miles off Cape Cod last Thursday on what was to be a brief inspection trip. These included Navy brass from Washington and two Associated Press staff men.

A succession of storms kept them aboard the tower until yesterday when the tug El Sol maneuvered under the structure and removed them in a huge basket—four to seven at a time.

Others to come ashore included tower workmen whose chores had been completed and some who were lowered down to the tug to assist in the transfer operations.

All praised the dexterity of Patrick Carlough, skipper of the El Sol who celebrated his 37th birthday by taking off the stranded men.

An Aleutian Indian, he held his 174-foot craft almost under the 8,000-ton tower platform for an hour and a half as waves up to 25 feet endangered the transfer.

N. Y. Traffic Ticket Collection Tour Planned By Gypsy

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP) — A magistrate granted a 70-year-old Gypsy a month today to tour the South and attempt to persuade other tribesmen to pay off 1,500 traffic tickets issued them here.

Joe Uwanawich, the Gypsy, already had pleaded guilty to ignoring 22 tickets. He came to court for sentencing and a hearing on 29 other tickets.

He told Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh, however, that he had obtained $320 from three Gypsies to pay 35 tickets issued to them.

If he could tour the South, he said, he could persuade many more Gypsies who got tickets while in New York, to pay up. He mentioned Chattanooga, Atlanta and New Orleans in particular.

Magistrate Murtagh granted him a month's stay but warned he would have to "get a great deal more money" than the $320 to get a better break on his own case.

Most Of Country Has Thanksgiving Weather

[By The Associated Press]

Brisk weather in the Thanksgiving tradition covered most of the nation Wednesday.

It was cold in most of the northernmost states and cool across the middle belt.

The Pacific Northwest had rain along the coast and snow at higher spots inland. Burns, Ore., had five inches of fresh snow. Mt. Shasta in northern California also had a five-inch fall.

Sen. Kefauver 'Inclined' To Run

STONEWALL, Tex., Nov. 23 (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee said today he is "inclined to make the race" for Democratic presidential nominee in 1956 but is not yet ready to announce his decision.

Visiting at the ranch of Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson, Kefauver said he has business to attend to and people to talk with before he can say finally whether or not he will seek the nomination.

He said an announcement should be forthcoming by late December or early January and that an earlier report that he would reach a decision by early December was in error.

At a press conference, Kefauver insisted he had not come to visit Johnson "to further my personal political ambitions."

"I want to wholeheartedly endorse Sen. Johnson's 13 point program," Kefauver said, referring to a legislative program projected by Johnson in a speech at Whitney, Tex., Monday night calling for more liberal social security, more conservation of natural resources and a better deal for the farmers.

House Unit Probes Fund For Republic

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Chairman Walter (D-Pa) said today that the House Committee on Un-American Activities is investigating the Fund for the Republic, an educational organization.

Walter said committee investigators have been checking on the Fund's activities ever since what he termed its criticism of Congress for having branded the Communist party as an international conspiracy.

He said public hearings based on the investigators' findings probably will be held shortly after Congress recovenes in January.

Walter also said the committee will go to Chicago in mid-December to conduct hearings on charges of Communist infiltration of the National Labor Relations Board.

Marooned Men Leave Texas Tower

Five men in a bucket attached to a huge crane leave the deck of the Texas Tower radar island after being marooned in bad weather for nearly a week. Fifty-two men, mostly Air Force personnel on an inspection trip that was supposed to be for only a few hours, were taken off and brought into Boston yesterday.

Brazil Congress Seen Imposing State Of Siege

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Congress rushed action today on a bill imposing a state of siege throughout Brazil to bolster the regime of provisional President Nereu Ramos.

Final passage of the measure authorizing modified martial law and suspending many rights guaranteed by the constitution was expected by tomorrow.

The deputies this afternoon voted 162 to 69 that the final vote should be a standing one instead of by rollcall. This was considered a test of the bill's chances and apparently confirmed that a majority supports it.

Court Might Back Cafe

The avowed purpose of the bill's sponsors is to prevent Joao Cafe Filho's re-installation in the presidency which might be ordered by a Supreme Court interpretation of the constitution.

Congress yesterday rejected Cafe's bid to resume the functions of the presidency and ruled he is still disabled by the heart attack which caused him to take sick leave Nov. 8.

His attorneys then asked the Supreme Court for a special writ authorizing his return to office and a writ of habeas corpus to free him from virtual house arrest imposed by the army yesterday when his home was surrounded by troops and tanks. Today the soldiers were withdrawn from around the apartment house where Cafe lives in the Copacabana district, but 50 federal police remained.

Revolution Feared

The petitions on Cafe's behalf were assigned by the court today to two justices for study, the first routine step in the judicial procedure.

A majority of Congress, backed by War Minister Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott and the army, appear determined to bar Cafe's return, suspecting that his supporters aim at a revolution to prevent President-elect Juscelino Kubitschek's inauguration next Jan. 31.

American Soldiers "Unpolish" Shoes To Meet New Rule

BERLIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—American soldiers in Germany are hard at work unpolishing their shoes to keep in good grace with the top-kick.

A new regulation from headquarters at Heidelberg said shoes henceforth will be tan or russet.

Most shoes in the European command have been polished darker than that. For most officers the average shade is deep cordovan.

The regulation was described by officers here today as intended to bring about a uniform color.

Soldiers with extra pocket money have bought new shoes.

AEC Won't Pay Dixon-Yates

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission today repudiated the Dixon-Yates contract altogether, serving notice it does not feel obligated to pay anything under the now dead power pact.

The Eisenhower administration some time ago canceled the contract it had the AEC sign with private utilities to feed power into the Tennessee Valley Authority area. But the cancellation had left open the question whether the government would pay the Dixon-Yates group for expenses incurred prior to the contract's end.

Today's announcement came after government lawyers studied contentions of the contract's critics that the whole thing was invalid because of an illegal "conflict of interests." The critics held that in effect Adolphe Wenzell, New York banker, had sat on both sides of the table—the government and private utilities sides — in talks leading up to the contract.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss announced today the AEC, on advice of counsel, "has notified the Mississippi Valley Generating Co., that its power contract of Nov. 11, 1954, with the United States is not an obligation which can be recognized by the United States."

Steps To Assist Hard-Hit Areas Urged By Clague

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, said today that private initiative will have to do much of the job of improving conditions in low-income areas.

Federal action also is essential to relieve unemployment in hard-hit industrial areas and to improve conditions in distressed farm sections, Clague said.

But he told a Senate-House Economic subcommittee the federal government cannot alone ease the sore spots in a generally prosperous economy. State and local agencies—public and private—will have to pitch in, he said, and a "major part of the solution will have to be contributed by private initiative."

120 Labor Surplus Areas

Earlier Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), the subcommittee chairman, said a Labor Department survey had found 26 major and 94 smaller areas had a substantial labor surplus in September. He said these pockets contained 500,000 of the two-to-three million persons then looking in vain for work.

Clague testified on the last day of hearings called by the subcommittee to devise methods of bringing relief to low-income groups. The Labor Department official said more than 2½ million nonfarm families had an income of less than $2,000 last year.

Farm Aid Bill Proposed

While current figures are not available, the Commerce Department estimated earlier this year that 41 per cent of American families have incomes of $5,000 a year or more—and 55 per cent receive at least $4,000.

Sparkman said the subcommittee would hand Congress a report for use in working up corrective legislation next year. He already has proposed a bill to provide federal aid for family-size farms. Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) has prepared another to aid distressed areas.

Second Term Question May Be Discussed

First Political Talks Since Heart Attack Set Up By President

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Nov. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower set up today his first full-fledged political conference since his Sept. 24 heart attack—a meeting Monday with Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

Whether the two top men in the GOP will get into the intriguing topic of a second term for Eisenhower is an open question.

Presidential press secretary, James C. Hagerty said only that, "I wouldn't think so." But that by no means slammed the door on an exploration of the President's 1956 intentions.

In any event, Eisenhower is on his way back to a decisive role in Republican party affairs. And soon will be doing business again at the White House in Washington.

On this Thanksgiving eve, the President had reason to be doubly grateful:

Health Improves Steadily

Eisenhower's health seems to be improving steadily, with no setbacks. His doctors so reported this morning.

Accordingly, the President set up a schedule running through mid-December, which goes like this:

Nov. 28—The conference here with Hall. Hagerty said he assumed there would be a discussion of "matters dealing with the Republican party." By that, he added "I mean politics."

Dec 3—Visits here with Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California and House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts. Hagerty said these will deal with legislative program and the State of the Union message the President presents to Congress early in January.

NSC, Cabinet Meetings Set

Dec. 8-9—A repeat of this week's meetings with the National Security Council and Cabinet at the President's mountain lodge near Thurmont, Md.

Dec. 10—A return to Washington for X-rays and fluoroscopes at Walter Reed Hospital to determine whether increased activity has resulted in any enlargement of Eisenhower's heart.

Dec. 12—The annual conference at the White House with Republican leaders from Congress on the State of the Union message and legislation.

Dec. 13—The usual follow-up with congressional chiefs of both parties on foreign affairs and military aspects of the message and program, then a trip back to Gettysburg.

Dec. 17—Another complete examination by the renowned Boston heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, probably here in Gettysburg.

From there on, the program has not been worked out. But Hagerty did say that, "The family plans Christmas at the White House."

Tower Refugees Back On Shore

BOSTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Fifty-two tired, bearded refugees from the Texas tower were back on land today and headed home for Thanksgiving, grateful for the combined efforts that brought them safely to shore.

Of the group, 37 were visitors who went out to the manmade radar island 110 miles off Cape Cod last Thursday on what was to be a brief inspection trip. These included Navy brass from Washington and two Associated Press staff men.

A succession of storms kept them aboard the tower until yesterday when the tug El Sol maneuvered under the structure and removed them in a huge basket—four to seven at a time.

Others to come ashore included tower workmen whose chores had been completed and some who were lowered down to the tug to assist in the transfer operations.

All praised the dexterity of Patrick Carlough, skipper of the El Sol who celebrated his 37th birthday by taking off the stranded men.

An Aleutian Indian, he held his 174-foot craft almost under the 8,000-ton tower platform for an hour and a half as waves up to 25 feet endangered the transfer.

Federal Action To Curb GM Urged By O'Mahoney

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said today that unless the government acts General Motors will attain complete domination of the automobile industry. He urged strengthening of the antitrust laws.

Presiding over a study of General Motors Corp. by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, O'Mahoney said the evidence to date indicates that "control in a very high degree now exists in those who manage General Motors."

"If we don't have regulation by government we will have control by General Motors," he asserted.

O'Mahoney said auto dealers are being required by GM zone and district managers to buy more cars than they can sell on a sound financial basis.

He said manufacturers of automobile parts, who have been in business 30 to 40 years, are finding themselves "squeezed out of the market."

The subcommittee is being "flooded" with complaints from the dealers, O'Mahoney reported, and many say they are "on the brink of disaster."

The senator added that these dealers are forced to grant long terms for repayment on new cars and "exaggerated exchange values" on old cars traded in.

There was no immediate comment from General Motors. But earlier this month Henry M. Hogan, GM vice president and general counsel, suggested the investigators ask the dealers "how much they've made in the last five years."

If the dealers are hurting, he said, "that's poverty with a ham under your arm."

Washington Taken To Task By Critics When He Proclaimed Thanksgiving Day

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — No matter what he does, a U.S. President runs into criticism.

George Washington even got rapped for proclaiming this new nation's first Thanksgiving Day.

The Boston "Herald of Freedom," an anti-Federalist paper, gave the anti-Thanksgiving view:

"The President can have nothing to do with the people, but through the government of the federal states."

If Washington wanted to follow the pattern set by the Pilgrims, the Herald grumbled, he should have "addressed himself to the supreme executives of the several states and recommended it to them to appoint a Thanksgiving upon one particular day."

Washington paid no attention. He went right ahead and was thankful on Thursday, Nov. 26, 1789.

Washington didn't proclaim another Thanksgiving until 1795, in February, this time, and for several years thereafter the day bobbed around uncertainly from one month to the other.

The National Geographic Society which has done some research on the subject, says Sarah Hale, who wrote "Mary Had a Little Lamb?" deserves credit for making Thanksgiving a national holiday. As editor of the influential Godey's Lady's Book she pounded away on the idea for 20 years, until Abraham Lincoln gave in.

He set aside the last Thursday of November as a day of "humble penitence for our national perverseness and disobedience," with a special plea to the Almighty to "heal the wounds of the nation."

With a little juggling of dates, Presidents have been proclaiming Thanksgiving ever since. Franklin D. Roosevelt experimented by choosing the next-to-last Thursday for the holiday, but Congress later decided it should be celebrated on the fourth Thursday.

Strictly speaking, though, this country still has no legal holidays. The states officially declare them, and that includes such universally observed days as Christmas and New Year's.

The Geographic turned up one state executive who gave a reverse twist to Thanksgiving. When Grover Cleveland proclaimed a Thanksgiving in 1893, the year of the panic, he recalled past bounties and ignored present woes.

Gov. Davis H. Waite of Colorado thereupon wrote his own proclamation, listing things not to be thankful for: Heavy farm mortgages, unemployment, a drop in land values.

Bombay Gives Soviet Leaders Wild Welcome

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 23 (AP) — Political factions battling over the partition of Bombay State laid aside their differences today to give visiting Soviet leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev a massive welcome to India's most modern city.

There was no hint of violence as vast crowds lining the 12-mile route from the airport to the Bombay governor's palace waved Communist and Indian flags and shouted slogans as their cars passed.

The bitter dispute over Nehru's Congress party proposal to create an independent state from the city of Bombay which cost 12 lives in rioting two days ago was no longer apparent.

Political leaders said leftists—including Communists—who used stones, bricks and fire to show their displeasure at the proposal have agreed on a truce until the Soviet visitors are gone.

Still fresh after a busy day which included two plane flights, an 80-mile car ride and even a canter atop an elephant in the forests of Uttar Pradesh State near Bareilly, Premier Bulganin and Soviet Communist party chief Khrushchev stepped from their plane to face another throng of enthusiastic greeters.

They repeated then their offers to assist India's industrial and scientific development and reviewed the Soviet Union's "love and friendship for the government and people of India."

There were cheers as Indian girls fitted each of the Soviet leaders with the Congress party white cap, known as a "Gandhi cap."

The volatile Bombay crowds — including more than 200,000 flag-waving school children who had been assembled to cheer the Russians—gave police their first trouble as Bulganin and Khrushchev drove from the airport.

Enthusiastic groups pushed through police lines and broke the procession after the first few cars passed.

The Soviet leaders went on to address a formal civic reception in a new stadium before more than 50,000 people but the rest of the party, including newsmen, was unable to reach the meeting because of the crowds.

West Germany Reorganizes Its Defense Setup

BONN, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP) — West Germany revamped its Defense Ministry today and named two career generals to top jobs in building up the nation's new 500,000-man armed forces. The generals fought in the German armies of World War II and eventually opposed Hitler's faltering leadership.

Lt. Gen. Adolf Heusinger, 58, who was arrested in the 1944 bomb plot against Hitler, was appointed chairman of a new supreme military council and will be the chief military planner.

Under him will be Lt. Gen. Hans Speidel, also 58 and who also was arrested as a suspect in the bomb plot, as chief of a newly created armed forces department.

In the ministry's reorganization new departments were set up for the army, navy and air force. With the armed forces department, these departments will make up the supreme military council over which Heusinger will preside.

By 1959, the Bonn government plans to have 500,000 men under arms in a 12-division army, a 1,300-plane tactical air force and a coastal defense navy. These forces are to be integrated into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Today's appointments reflected the new urgency behind the drive to speed the buildup of the armed forces following the failure of the Big Four foreign ministers to agree on German unity at Geneva.

In the last two weeks, the government has:

1. Put the first 185 officers and men into uniform.

2. Announced plans to create three infantry divisions early next year by merging the frontier police force into the army.

3. Disclosed that it will create the staffs for nine additional divisions early in 1956.

Working Wives In Red Germany Voice Complaint

BERLIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—Working wives in Communist East Germany complained today that the state should provide some "peoples owned" servants so they can get their housework done.

East German newspapers in Chemnitz and Plauen reported that in "discussion groups" working wives said they couldn't get around to doing their jobs in factory, mill or office and also keep a home together. They asked for establishment of state employment offices where part-time servants would be on call.

Maj. John Scioli Is Found Guilty

FT. MEADE, Md., Nov. 23 (AP)—An Army major with a combat record and superior efficiency ratings faces dismissal from the service and two years at hard labor for borrowing money from enlisted men.

A general court-martial board of seven officers ruled today that Maj. John N. Scioli's actions constituted conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman, and prejudiced good order and discipline.

The court martial board deliberated for 55 minutes before judging Scioli guilty of two charges and some nine specifications preferred against him.

The specifications alleged that Scioli, while assigned as executive officer at Ft. Ritchie, Md., solicited loans ranging from $100 to $250 from three enlisted men stationed there.

They also charged that the major intercepted mail addressed to his commanding officer, Col. Maurice Higgins.

In final arguments today, Scioli's defense counsel argued that the loans were open and above board, and that they were made at the insistence of the men themselves, after they heard of Scioli's financial difficulties.

Yanks Overseas Ready To Attack Big Turkey Feed

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP)—A quarter of a million combat-trained U.S. soldiers will launch a major attack tomorrow—on 250,000 pounds of Thanksgiving Day turkey.

This army of GIs will storm hundreds of mess halls throughout Europe—and at other far-flung bases—for the traditional American meal, with all the trimmings. The European Command promises there will be enough roast turkey to provide each soldier with at least one pound.

With it will go: shrimp cocktail, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, glazed sweet potatoes, fresh peas, Waldorf salad, celery, olives, sweet pickles, hot rolls and butter, mince and pumpkin pie, coffee, fruit, candy and nuts.

Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, commander in chief of the U.S. Army in Europe said in a Thanksgiving message:

"We have much to be thankful for. We are thankful for our many material benefits. We are thankful for the liberty and freedom which we enjoy as Americans and we are thankful for the privilege of serving our country."

Lt. Gen. William H. Turner, commander in chief of the U.S. Air Force in Europe, said in a statement:

"On this Thanksgiving Day 1955, let us especially include thanks for our friends and allies and for our joint strength, courage and determination to protect the God-given rights of free men."

A dozen GI football "classics" will be contested. Fans will huddle together in temporary bleachers, eat hot dogs and root for their favorite Army and Air Force teams.

Pair In Hunting Togs Robs Bank

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 23 (AP) — Two young men bundled up in hunting togs waved pistols at 10 persons in a branch bank in a busy shopping center today and escaped with $13,103 from the cash drawers.

An alarm immediately was spread in Indiana and Illinois to pick up the gunmen in a flashy red and white automobile.

The loot included $5,000 in $100 bills.

No one was hurt, but the four employes and six customers were forced to lie face down on the floor.

One of the women customers, who had been carrying a 2-year-old baby, said she hid the child under her as she lay on the floor, and the crying child became ill from fright.

Mrs. Grace Brumm, 43, a teller, said the men jumped over the counter of the Hoosier State Bank's Woodmar shopping center branch and scooped money into a tan shopping bag. More than $35,000 in a vault was not touched.

The men were believed to be in their mid-20s.

Transport Workers Reject PRR Proposal

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23 (AP) — The CIO Transport Workers Union yesterday rejected a Pennsylvania Railroad proposal that the union accept the recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board on benefits for more than 22,500 non-operating employes.

Andrew J. Kaelin, coordinator for the railroad division of the TWU, said the action left the union free to strike after Nov. 26.

Kealin said, however, we have not taken any position on what our action will be. The next step is up to the railroad. The responsibility rests with them."

There was no comment from the railroad.

The proposed benefits include a health and welfare fund, paid holidays and changes in job classifications. The fact-finding board was appointed by President Eisenhower on Sept. 1.

Bodies Of Four U. S. Airmen Recovered

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Nov. 23 (AP)—The bodies of four American airmen whose plane crashed in dense fog on a mountainside in Iceland were recovered today.

The plane, a C47 transport, was reported missing Monday. An American search party sighted it yesterday on the Akrafjall Mountain, 30 miles from Reykjavik airfield.

A ground rescue party of 25 Icelanders and 9 Americans from Keflavik reached the wreckage this morning. They found it only 10 yards below the mountain summit.

The dead were stationed at Keflavik and had their families there with them.

Turkey Day Blues

Shed Tear For Papa, Who Must Carve!

By DARBY HILL
Written for Central Press

Thanksgiving Day, 1955, is upon us and once again we are reminded of the significance and history of this glorious holiday which is so peculiarly and rightly American.

We read once more that the Pilgrims, back in 1621, cooked up the first Thanksgiving dinner, at Plymouth, Mass. (Every 6-year-old knows that.)

Strike One!

It's also retold that the Pilgrams invited the neighboring Indians to tear a wishbone with them at the time. (Smart move—since a red-skin full of drumstick and cranberry sauce would be somewhat disinclined to separate his host from his hairdo.

We read again that George Washington was the first President to appoint an official Thanksgiving Day and that it was President Lincoln who officially made the Big Dinner Day the last Thursday in November.

Bringing Thanksgiving Day facts more up to date, the historians recall that briefly during the administration of President Roosevelt there was not one but two Thanksgiving Days.

O. K. Fine. Great stuff. However, there's one Thanksgiving Day fact that no historian has had the courage—or knowledge—to reveal to us. It's this: Who in the Sam Hill was responsible for starting the idea that it was Papa's bounden duty to carve the turkey?

As a Husband and Papa of many years this has been a most irksome mystery. Let's have his name or, rather, hers! It's almost certain that the foul (you won't catch us pulling a sour pun like fowl!) idea was of feminine origin.

No doubt some Mama long ago, red-faced and weary from her kitchen ordeal, in bringing on the golden brown bird to the dinner table fixed her helpmate with a piercing eye and told the assembled guests, "Papa will carve!"

Papa, of course, who had done nothing more strenuous than pull corks and see that everybody (except Mama) had been adequately and repeatedly served with high-colored wines and, perhaps, even higher-colored stories, was naturally aghast.

However, with the eyes of all upon him there was naught he could do but seize carving knife and fork in hand and proceed to butcher the bird. And his descendants (male) have always faced the same fate.

Now in the years since we surrendered the freedom of bachelorhood for the joys of connubial bliss we have become pretty domesticated—we've learned to play a fair hand of contract bridge, we've even learned to help wash and dry dishes without smashing more than a teacup or a saucer or two at one session.

However, we have never learned to separate white meat from breast bone without making it look like a miniature version of the Massacre of the Mamelukes. When we get hold of a Thanksgiving turkey it develops more tough joints than Clark Street, Chicago, during Prohibition.

Strike Three!!

Every year we hack, saw, stab, parry and slash—and the result is the same: complete frustration for us, disgust for the Missus and nausea (no doubt) for the dinner guests.

Of course, the Supreme Court will never rescue us. That's too much to hope for. They never bother about really important stuff like this. We're doomed to carry on.

O. K. — guess we can take it. However, we would like to know the name of the lady of the house who started all this.

Historians, there's your challenge—get going!

Strike Two!!

In final arguments today, Scioli's defense counsel argued that the loans were open and above board, and that they were made at the insistence of the men themselves, after they heard of Scioli's financial difficulties.

Yanks Overseas Ready To Attack Big Turkey Feed

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP)—A quarter of a million combat-trained U.S. soldiers will launch a major attack tomorrow—on 250,000 pounds of Thanksgiving Day turkey.

This army of GIs will storm hundreds of mess halls throughout Europe—and at other far-flung bases—for the traditional American meal, with all the trimmings. The European Command promises there will be enough roast turkey to provide each soldier with at least one pound.

With it will go: shrimp cocktail, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, glazed sweet potatoes, fresh peas, Waldorf salad, celery, olives, sweet pickles, hot rolls and butter, mince and pumpkin pie, coffee, fruit, candy and nuts.

Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, commander in chief of the U.S. Army in Europe said in a Thanksgiving message:

"We have much to be thankful for. We are thankful for our many material benefits. We are thankful for the liberty and freedom which we enjoy as Americans and we are thankful for the privilege of serving our country."

Lt. Gen. William H. Turner, commander in chief of the U.S. Air Force in Europe, said in a statement:

"On this Thanksgiving Day 1955, let us especially include thanks for our friends and allies and for our joint strength, courage and determination to protect the God-given rights of free men."

A dozen GI football "classics" will be contested. Fans will huddle together in temporary bleachers, eat hot dogs and root for their favorite Army and Air Force teams.

Adenauer Takes Over

BONN, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer takes up the reins of government again tomorrow after a serious bout with pneumonia.

Pair In Hunting Togs Robs Bank

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 23 (AP) — Two young men bundled up in hunting togs waved pistols at 10 persons in a branch bank in a busy shopping center today and escaped with $13,103 from the cash drawers.

An alarm immediately was spread in Indiana and Illinois to pick up the gunmen in a flashy red and white automobile.

The loot included $5,000 in $100 bills.

No one was hurt, but the four employes and six customers were forced to lie face down on the floor.

One of the women customers, who had been carrying a 2-year-old baby, said she hid the child under her as she lay on the floor, and the crying child became ill from fright.

Mrs. Grace Brumm, 43, a teller, said the men jumped over the counter of the Hoosier State Bank's Woodmar shopping center branch and scooped money into a tan shopping bag. More than $35,000 in a vault was not touched.

The men were believed to be in their mid-20s.

Transport Workers Reject PRR Proposal

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23 (AP) — The CIO Transport Workers Union yesterday rejected a Pennsylvania Railroad proposal that the union accept the recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board on benefits for more than 22,500 non-operating employes.

Andrew J. Kaelin, coordinator for the railroad division of the TWU, said the action left the union free to strike after Nov. 26.

Kealin said, however, we have not taken any position on what our action will be. The next step is up to the railroad. The responsibility rests with them."

There was no comment from the railroad.

The proposed benefits include a health and welfare fund, paid holidays and changes in job classifications. The fact-finding board was appointed by President Eisenhower on Sept. 1.

Bodies Of Four U. S. Airmen Recovered

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Nov. 23 (AP)—The bodies of four American airmen whose plane crashed in dense fog on a mountainside in Iceland were recovered today.

The plane, a C47 transport, was reported missing Monday. An American search party sighted it yesterday on the Akrafjall Mountain, 30 miles from Reykjavik airfield.

A ground rescue party of 25 Icelanders and 9 Americans from Keflavik reached the wreckage this morning. They found it only 10 yards below the mountain summit.

The dead were stationed at Keflavik and had their families there with them.

Turkey Day Blues

Shed Tear For Papa, Who Must Carve!

By DARBY HILL
Written for Central Press

Thanksgiving Day, 1955, is upon us and once again we are reminded of the significance and history of this glorious holiday which is so peculiarly and rightly American.

We read once more that the Pilgrims, back in 1621, cooked up the first Thanksgiving dinner, at Plymouth, Mass. (Every 6-year-old knows that.)

Strike One!

It's also retold that the Pilgrams invited the neighboring Indians to tear a wishbone with them at the time. (Smart move—since a redskin full of drumstick and cranberry sauce would be somewhat disinclined to separate his host from his hairdo.

We read again that George Washington was the first President to appoint an official Thanksgiving Day and that it was President Lincoln who officially made the Big Dinner Day the last Thursday in November.

Bringing Thanksgiving Day facts more up to date, the historians recall that briefly during the administration of President Roosevelt there was not one but two Thanksgiving Days.

O. K. Fine. Great stuff. However, there's one Thanksgiving Day fact that no historian has had the courage—or knowledge—to reveal to us. It's this: Who in the Sam Hill was responsible for starting the idea that it was Papa's bounden duty to carve the turkey?

As a Husband and Papa of many years this has been a most irksome mystery. Let's have his name or, rather, hers! It's almost certain that the foul (you won't catch us pulling a sour pun like fowl!) idea was of feminine origin.

No doubt some Mama long ago, red-faced and weary from her kitchen ordeal, in bringing on the golden brown bird to the dinner table fixed her helpmate with a piercing eye and told the assembled guests, "Papa will carve!"

Papa, of course, who had done nothing more strenuous than pull corks and see that everybody (except Mama) had been adequately and repeatedly served with high-colored wines and, perhaps, even higher-colored stories, was naturally aghast.

However, with the eyes of all upon him there was naught he could do but seize carving knife and fork in hand and proceed to butcher the bird. And his descendants (male) have always faced the same fate.

Now in the years since we surrendered the freedom of bachelorhood for the joys of connubial bliss we have become pretty domesticated—we've learned to play a fair hand of contract bridge, we've even learned to help wash and dry dishes without smashing more than a teacup or a saucer or two at one session.

However, we have never learned to separate white meat from breast bone without making it look like a miniature version of the Massacre of the Mamelukes. When we get hold of a Thanksgiving turkey it develops more tough joints than Clark Street, Chicago, during Prohibition.

Strike Two!!

Strike Three!!

Every year we hack, saw, stab, parry and slash—and the result is the same: complete frustration for us, disgust for the Missus and nausea (no doubt) for the dinner guests.

Of course, the Supreme Court will never rescue us. That's too much to hope for. They never bother about really important stuff like this. We're doomed to carry on.

O. K. — guess we can take it. However, we would like to know the name of the lady of the house who started all this.

Historians, there's your challenge—get going!

Bigger Vehicle Tax Cut Sought By Baltimore Co.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23 (AP)—Baltimore County has its eye on a larger share of the revenues from State motor vehicle taxes and the Legislative Council today set a hearing for next Wednesday to hear the arguments.

Under the present distribution formula, the State Roads Commission gets half the revenue from the gasoline tax and annual license fees, 20 per cent is distributed to the counties and 30 per cent goes to Baltimore City.

In proposing a new formula be adopted, the Baltimore County commissioners declared:

"Baltimore City receives about 16 times as much as Baltimore County, even though the city's population is less than three times the county's and the road mileage in the county is greater than in Baltimore City."

When Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore heard of the impending attack on the city's motor vehicle revenues today he rallied the members of the city's Board of Estimates and Budget Director Herbert Fallin to be on hand for the hearing next week.

It will be before the Legislative Council's committee on budget and finance, starting at 11 a. m. Representatives of other counties with large urban areas also have been invited.

Baltimore's revenues from the State motor vehicle taxes make up an important part of its budget for street building and maintenance.

Baltimore County's share goes into county roads.

The State does not spend any of its share on streets in Baltimore, but in the county it has built, is rebuilding, and maintains a large network of State roads.

Hebron Criticizes Recent Vice Raid

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23 (AP)—Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron today joined in criticism of a recent vice squad raid and said his department's policy against mass arrests would be "reiterated, reemphasized and, if necessary, reenforced."

Baltimore's vice squad, since abolished and replaced by an expanded rackets division, raided the Pepper Hill Club Oct. 1 and arrested 162 persons.

The club is situated on the edge of Baltimore's gaudy "Block." Witnesses at the trial of the club's two operators said male patrons were seen hugging and kissing each other. Some said they saw acts of indecency.

Judge James K. Cullen yesterday ruled the defendants innocent of a charge of running a disorderly house.

Witness Testifies Crooms Admitted He Killed Adams

TOWSON, Md., Nov. 23 (AP) — A State's witness testified today Pedro Finley Crooms confessed to him he killed John I. Adams, Baltimore County numbers racketeer.

But Crooms, 33-year-old worker in an automobile assembly plant, took the stand himself and said he didn't do it.

He said he found Adams' body in his shack. He carted it off and dumped it, he said, because he had a criminal record and knew he would be in bad trouble if the body were found in his house.

Adams was slain the night of Oct. 12 about two weeks after he and six other men were arrested in a sensational State Police raid on a numbers headquarters at Turner Station, teeming Negro suburb on the east edge of Baltimore.

All the principals in the slaying are Negroes.

Chief witness against Crooms was Sgt. Robert Lee Palmer, 23, stationed at Ft. Holabird in Baltimore.

Palmer said he was with Crooms on the night of Oct. 14 when the body was taken from the shack, carted several miles and dumped along U.S. 40 just northeast of Baltimore.

Palmer testified he asked Crooms:

"Pedro, how did you kill this man?"

Palmer said Crooms replied: I strangled him."

An autopsy showed Adams was beaten and strangled.

Palmer originally was charged with being an accessory to the murder. The grand jury declined to indict him, however, and he became the main prosecution witness.

Counsel for Crooms asked many questions suggesting Adams bought protection from law enforcement officials.

Some of the questions were directed to Lt. William C. Booker of the Baltimore County Police force.

Bennett B. Cockey, defense attorney asked Booker about the appointment and promotion of three sergeants in the department.

"Do you know of your own knowledge that John I. Adams was the sponsor for their appointment?"

A prosecution objection was upheld.

"Do you know whether John I. Adams was paying for protection?"

"I know nothing of that," Lt. Booker replied.

Doctor Acquitted Of Girl's Charges

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23 (AP) — A jury quickly acquitted Dr. William Kessler today of charges he sexually attacked a 15-year-old Negro girl last July when she was a patient in the tuberculosis ward at City Hospitals.

The 30-year-old doctor from Cincinatti was an assistant resident at the hospital.

The jury of 10 men and two women deliberated only 14 minutes after hearing three days of testimony and legal arguments.

Pigmy tribesmen of the African Congo average about 4½ feet tall.

Government Gives Funds Toward AEC Center Site

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23 (AP) — The federal government has put up $54,600 toward the purchase of property at Germantown, Md., for the Atomic Energy Commission headquarters building.

The check, representing an estimated just compensation for the property, was deposited in Federal Court here pending completion of a condemnation suit against William O. Dosh, of Gaithersburg, who owns the farm tract near Germantown.

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen signed an order calling for immediate surrender of the land, and surrender of the tenant house and buildings by next March 1.

Defendants in addition to Dosh are his wife, Georgia M. Dosh; a tenant, W. H. Taylor; the State of Maryland and Montgomery County, the last two named because of their tax interests.

The suit originally was filed last July. Since then, the government has reduced its estimate of the amount of property needed from 120 acres to 109.2 acreas.

The world's first chain of grocery stores, in ancient Rome, is said to have been operated by a man named Lucius.

Harpooned sperm whales are highly dangerous. One charged and sank the American bark Kathleen in 1902.

'Copter Here To Stay As Means For Transporting Government VIPs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — It looks as if the helicopter is here to stay as another way to transport governmental bigwigs.

Members of the National Security Council used the Air Force's helicopter taxi service Tuesday to meet with President Eisenhower at Camp David in the Maryland mountains. Other Cabinet members flew up by 'copter yesterday.

And though a Cabinet meeting by helicopter is unprecedented, the big, strange looking contraptions played an important role in toting governmental leaders to theoretical safety during the mock bombing of the nation's capital last June.

Most of the President's helpers rode to Camp David in a helicopter that is 52½ feet long and bent in the middle so that it looks like a poorly made "V." Because of its shape, it's known unofficially as the "Flying Banana." Officially it's called "The Workhorse."

It takes to the air lifted by whirling rotors, with blades 44 feet long, at each end. The Air Force says it was built for "misc. purposes," which means it can be used for everything from carrying troops to litter cases. It can carry 20.

In an emergency the entire Cabinet and the President could climb into one machine and be carried away at a speed of 100 m.p.h.

A fellow who has ridden in the thing says that, except for a little more vibration, a flight in the Workhorse seems much like any other flight. He hopes, though, that the Cabinet officers were tipped off to the fact that during the warmup this helicopter really gets the shakes. Pilots who fly it call this the mambo period.

Noisy, too. Secretary of Commerce Weeks says "I would just as soon ride in a boiler factory."

Beauty is a habit, or it hasn't at all what it can be.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Are You A Part-Time Beauty?

Are you a part-time beauty? If you are, you're making things so much more difficult for yourself than if you put good looks on a full-time basis.

The idea that it's possible to look dazzling on occasion, and no more than acceptable, or worse, at other times, is a mistaken notion. The skin that gets meticulous treatment once in a while, and neglect the rest of the time, is by no means what skin can be as a result of daily beauty care. And it's quite a chore to make it look even half as good for the special occasion. Hair that isn't shampooed, brushed, set, and cut often enough can't look its best when the special time comes, despite the full treatment. A wardrobe that lags behind in style, quality, and repair belong to the girl who never has anything to wear when she receives the most exciting invitation — but she's not too likely to receive it if she's been seen down-at-the-heel.

Beauty and grooming are far less trouble if effort is constant. It hardly seems like effort when everyday beauty routine is established—you perform beauty rites as a matter of course while more important thoughts claim your attention. Grooming that's a habit avoids the scramble when snaps need replacing, hems tacking up, and blouses pressing—and there's no time to bother. And when you're always turned out nicely, in the simple at-home clothes that are so attractive today as well as in those you wear away from home, you need never suffer embarrassment or try to correct a bad impression.

Once you become a full-time beauty, more reward is in store. You look prettier in your off moments than you once did when you took extra pains.

Challenge To Climbers

BUENOS AIRES, Nov, 23 (AP)—A group of Italian scientists and mountain climbers is on the way to southern Chile to tackle Mt. Sarmiento, a peak that's relatively small but mighty tough. Sarmiento is only 7,500 feet high. But for about 1,000 feet the walls, glistening with ice, rise almost vertically.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (INS)—I used to laugh at my mother's way of reading her newspaper. War, famine, flood, pestilence, sex, science, politics, drama and the prospect of inter-planetary travel might color the front page headlines. My mother ignored all that, momentarily at least, and thumbed her way quickly to the obituary page.

She still does so with her Washington Post and Times Herald. She was the first person I ever knew who kept saying, "tsk tsk" while reading a paper. I'm beginning to sound like her. The obit page gets more readable every time I pick it up. Some dear names and faces have appeared there of late. This is a little salute and memoir. It is belated only in the sense that it might have appeared the day after their deaths. But it is not obsolete. The people I speak of left monuments in me.

Bill Curley edited the New York American and I worked for him when first in New York, 18 years ago. Bill had the instinctive gift of making an uncertain rookie feel like a big leaguer, in a few swift sentences.

The first day I met him, he opened my eyes to the wide, wide world of news that lay beyond the sports-page. Where fog, suspicion and ignorance on my part had lain, now there was a clear picture painted by a man who knew news as no one else in my experience and knew that it transcended the labyrinth of apparent walls that divide and compartmentalize it in your paper.

As a very young man I was confirmed by James Cardinal Gibbons. As a young sportswriter and sometime feature fellow I worked for Bill Curley. I've been a lucky bum.

To know Julie Pegler was to be in the presence of something so few of us have, and that is quiet courage. Mrs. Pegler did not come down with heart trouble about 20 years ago. She came up with it. She dignified it, as Louise Baer did and as Eisenhower has done. This fine and active reporter learned to live with it, patiently kept it from intruding. She was as much of a hero to me as any sword-rattling, supersonic, trench-raiding, left-hooking, home run hitting, deep sea diving, bull-fighting person I ever wrote about.

Peg was temporarily felled with gasket trouble at the Geneva Big Four meeting last summer. I called his hotel to see if I could do a little leg work for him but even as I inquired I knew I was delivering 8,000 long tons of coal to Scranton. Julie was on the job.

Julie was the kind of wife who would sit quietly to the side of a man bleeding over a typewriter that wouldn't make the right words come out. She'd never wince when he'd tear the paper out, wad it in a ball, throw it away and start again. She'd be there to read copy, and ever so gently to suggest a change. There must have been many times in her life when as the beloved of the greatest crusading newspaperman of our times she had to share the physical dangers that surround a man as indignantly moral as Peg. But Julie was, in truth, what Peg once ironically thought of calling his column, "Sweetness and Light." She was his day off. I feel terribly worried for my friend in his tremendous loss.

THANKSGIVING 1955

BECAUSE we have more to be thankful for than any other peoples in the world, our responsibilities are greater, and not lesser.

OUR privileges as citizens, to speak our minds and live our lives freely, to worship in our own traditions, to enjoy the abundance of our way of life is not to be taken for granted. It makes our responsibilities greater.

OUR democratic right to choose the leaders who will continue this way of life carries with it our responsibility of voting and making our voices heard, in which it is our individual responsibility to take due deliberation. Recklessness of thought or speech can destroy our privileges of freedom.

FREEDOM of worship, in the way of our peoples—all God-fearing—who came to these shores to worship in the way of their fathers and build a great nation together—is jeopardized, if our wisdom and judgment does not have the fundamental love of justice for all mankind.

FREEDOM is Democracy — upon which the Pilgrims fathered this great nation and in their tradition — a great pattern for all peoples; we set aidse this Thanksgiving Day. In this modern age . . . more than ever before . . . realizing our responsibility as citizens of a great and privileged nation we ask for God's guidance and bow our heads in Thanksgiving for the many, many blessings He has bestowed upon us.

Stock Market Continues Drive Toward New Peak

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP) — The stock market advanced today in its second straight step toward a new record high mark.

It faltered toward the finish, however, as traders and others got ready for the Thanksgiving Day recess.

Most gains went to between 1 and 3 points. Losses usually were no greater than 2 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 90 cents at $180.20. The record high last Sept. 23 was $181.50. All three components of the average were higher—industrials 80 cents, rails $1.70, and utilities 10 cents.

There were 1,176 individual issues traded, of which 518 advanced and 412 declined with 47 new highs and 7 new lows for the year.

Volume amounted to 2,550,000 shares as compared with 2,270,000 shares traded yesterday when the market was strong.

Panhandle Oil topped the most active list up 7/8 at 14 3/8 on 55,700 shares. Harrisburg Steel was second most active, off 1/8 at 38 1/2. Curtiss-Wright came third off 3/8 at 28 7/8.

Sperry Rand was fourth up 3/8 at 22 1/2. General Motors was fifth today, off 3/8 at 50 1/8.

The biggest feature of today's market was Union Pacific which closed up 8 points at 198 1/2 after hitting a top of 202. The jump came on the proposal that the stock be split five-for-one and declaration of a dividend of $3 as compared with $2 a year ago.

Otis Elevator added 4 1/8 at 75 on recommendation of a two-for-one split and declaration of a higher dividend and an extra.

Visking, off 4 1/2 yesterday, fell 2 at 119 1/2 today on a proposal for a three-for-one split and an extra dividend.

High dividends brought gains for Vulcan Detinning up 1 1/4 at 17 3/4, Oxford Paper up 1 3/8 at 38 7/8, and Crown Zellerbach up 1 1/2 at 55.

Dividend news also brought some declines—National Aviation off 2 1/4 at 42 1/2 on a $3 dividend, Anaconda Copper off 1 at 73 1/8 on a $2 dividend, and Inspiration Copper off 1 1/2 at 60 1/2 on a $2 dividend.

Stock Market Continues Drive Toward New Peak

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP) — The stock market advanced today in its second straight step toward a new record high mark.

It faltered toward the finish, however, as traders and others got ready for the Thanksgiving Day recess.

Most gains went to between 1 and 3 points. Losses usually were no greater than 2 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 90 cents at $180.20. The record high last Sept. 23 was $181.50. All three components of the average were higher—industrials 80 cents, rails $1.70, and utilities 10 cents.

There were 1,176 individual issues traded, of which 518 advanced and 412 declined with 47 new highs and 7 new lows for the year.

Volume amounted to 2,550,000 shares as compared with 2,270,000 shares traded yesterday when the market was strong.

Panhandle Oil topped the most active list up 7/8 at 14 3/8 on 55,700 shares. Harrisburg Steel was second most active, off 1/8 at 38 1/2. Curtiss-Wright came third off 3/8 at 28 7/8.

Sperry Rand was fourth up 3/8 at 22 1/2. General Motors was fifth today, off 3/8 at 50 1/8.

The biggest feature of today's market was Union Pacific which closed up 8 points at 198 1/2 after hitting a top of 202. The jump came on the proposal that the stock be split five-for-one and declaration of a dividend of $3 as compared with $2 a year ago.

Otis Elevator added 4 1/8 at 75 on recommendation of a two-for-one split and declaration of a higher dividend and an extra.

Visking, off 4 1/2 yesterday, fell 2 at 119 1/2 today on a proposal for a three-for-one split and an extra dividend.

High dividends brought gains for Vulcan Detinning up 1 1/4 at 17 3/4, Oxford Paper up 1 3/8 at 38 7/8, and Crown Zellerbach up 1 1/2 at 55.

Dividend news also brought some declines—National Aviation off 2 1/4 at 42 1/2 on a $3 dividend, Anaconda Copper off 1 at 73 1/8 on a $2 dividend, and Inspiration Copper off 1 1/2 at 60 1/2 on a $2 dividend.

The American Stock Exchange was somewhat mixed on volume of 830,000 shares against 740,000 shares yesterday.

Corporate bonds were mixed and U. S. government issues over the counter were higher.

E. V. COYLE'S

45 Baltimore Street Cumberland, Md.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

At the risk of being considered a rut-bound conformist, I am going to yield to the established custom of this season and devote my column to an expression of thanks.

The object of my gratitude will be the frequently abused brand of "nonconformists" of our nation.

Some of my political associates will undoubtedly think they see evidence of crafty logic in that statement, especially since the votes of so-called noncomformists in the opposition party have helped keep me on Capitol Hill for 13 years.

In a way, I agree. It is only natural that I am grateful to the many persons who have crossed party lines to support me, and I mention it now to try to dispose of any supposition that there are hidden motives behind my Thanksgiving-week comments.

Added Zest

The fact of the matter is that many of the persons now in my thoughts have been dead for centuries.

In their day, though, they added zest and new ideas to our country when it was at the most critical point of its struggle to break away from the rigid conventions of the Old World.

Frequently, because of their seemingly unorthodox views, they were branded with a litany of names—"Extremists! Renegades! Eccentrics!"

But it is well to remember that the very families who gathered in New England on the first Thanksgiving Day had gained a reputation in Europe for being somewhat out of step with the 17th Century.

Foundation Of Freedom

The came here because they refused to "go along" with the crowd. And they aided in laying the foundations of American freedom.

Today's nonconformists in our nation fall into two categories.

In the first group are the Communists and Red sympathizers who want to destroy by violence the heritage of liberty which permits even dissenters to have their say. Like diseases which kill the bodies in which they thrive, such threats must obviously be eliminated.

Second Group

The men and women in the second group, on the other hand, are vital to our continued progress.

These persons are the ones who brave ridicule, unpopularity and pressure to support their convictions within the framework of our democracy.

Maryland has a long list of such sons and daughters in her family record.

They have bucked firmly rooted routines in their efforts to obtain reforms. They have jolted lawmakers into remembering that popular paths are not always best.

I have not always agreed with their positions, of course, but I have always been sincerely grateful that our country has an army of individualists who have climbed out of the furrow of unquestioning compliance to get what they think will be a better aim at the stars.

Plane Sabotage Causes Concern

It is difficult to imagine a crime much more shocking and more callous than the one with which a 23-year-old Denver man named John Gilbert Graham stands charged. Graham, according to the FBI, is the man responsible for the tragic crash of a United Airlines plane on November 1 in which 44 people died.

The FBI believes his motive was to collect $37,500 in insurance on his mother's life. His mother, who was aboard the plane, had spent the past four years scraping up $2,500 to help pay back money which Graham had stolen on a check forging spree.

But what concerns the public chiefly is not Graham and whether or not he gets his just desserts, if he is convicted of this crime. It is how the commercial air lines, and the passengers who travel on them, can be protected against this type of mass murder.

There has been, to be sure, only one similar crime in all the annals of commercial flight. Moreover, most individuals bent on murder, it is assumed, would flinch at the thought of slaying dozens of innocent people at one stroke. Even most murderers have some scruples, or the prospect would be more grim than it is. But the poser is how to protect air travelers from the individual who will coldbloodedly condemn scores of complete strangers to death in order to kill the one person who has become the target of his twisted mind.

The tragedy raises a whole set of questions to which there are no satisfactory answers. Does the ready availability of cheap life insurance at most air terminals constitute a temptation to men like Graham? Would it be possible or feasible to screen all passengers and examine all luggage, by X-ray or otherwise, as a precaution against something of this sort?

The answer is, probably not. But this is the sort of thing that must give both the FBI and the air lines real and deep concern as long as the possibility of sabotage of a plane in flight remains.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Thanksgiving 1955

The day for giving thanks to God for His bounty to us in the United States has become a long weekend during the autumn, a weekend of turkey and cranberries and pumpkin pie. The table groans heavily with home-cooked food, but at too few tables does the Pater Familias rise to thank God for the food which we enjoy in such enormous plentitude.

We Americans have so much to be thankful for —so much more than for our food and clothes and automobiles and television sets. While these material things are of some value, they are not really the essence of our lives. What we call our high standard of living is the economic side of our lives, but infinitely more essential are our liberties.

We need to be thankful that we live in an orderly society where even the wrong-doer knows his rights under the law—the right of trial by jury, the right to a lawyer of his own choosing, the right to protection from double-jeojardy, the right to protection from self-incrimination, the right of bail and of appeal. If such rights are important to the wrong-doer, they are even more important to the person who lives within the law. For neither the tyranny of government nor of an organized minority nor of the mob may abuse the rights of an individual without violating the law.

We should be thankful that in this orderly society changes of government occur regularly and at stated periods without violence. It is a mark of civilization that the people should have freedom of the choice of their own government. It is a mark of maturity that that choice should not be achieved by violence. Those who fail to receive the acknowledgment of the people's will retire to private life and even oblivion. Those who emerge to leadership recognize that they are responsible to those who chose them and are not elevated by their own will. Such an orderly system safeguards the lives and happiness of the people who enjoy an election and never fear it.

We need to be thankful that we enjoy freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of the press. It is true that in recent years, these freedoms have been confused by the assumption that men also should enjoy freedom of subversion and corruption and that espionage could be regarded as freedom of thought. If such a doctrine were to be accepted, it would be a negation of the fundamental obligation to respect the rights of each other.

In a word, if the rights of individuals are to be preserved, the obligation of each individual not to interfere with or abuse the rights of every other individual must be automatic. True, the press enjoys freedom, but it is limited by libel laws; it may not be salacious or malicious. True, there is freedom of speech, but slander is a protective against freedom being converted into anarchy. In acknowledging the Natural Law, God's guide to man, we limit liberty by virtue lest liberty become license. But we do it in freedom, by the will of the people, not by the dictum of mortal man.

We thank God that despite two wars and a prolonged economic depression, we have not been forced into a way of life which subverts man to a creature of the state, an enslavement which reduces the individual to a thing to be used by the state without regard to the inalienable rights and dignity of the individual human being. After all our troubles, we have reverted to the American concept of basing our economic system on the law of supply and demand, on competition, on free inventiveness and initiative.

We pray that the day may come when we shall be freed from oppressive taxes, oppressively collected —taxes which we ourselves voted to safeguard our country and our civilization. When the day comes that taxes are reduced, we shall strengthen our families in the traditional American concept that the family is the heart of our society.

We have so much to be thankful for this year and most of all that we have peace, that most of our sons are at home and are not fighting in wars. And we pray God that His face will shine upon us and give us eternal peace.

Repetition Of Inaccuracy Brings Belief As Truth

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's a tribute to the power of reiteration that, if an inaccuracy is repeated often enough, it begins to be accepted as truth.

Thus, Adlai Stevenson told a nationwide audience last Saturday night that the Democrats "won both houses of Congress in 1954." Many other speakers have been saying the same thing in recent months.

The fact is that the Democrats didn't "win" the Senate. They tied it. And if Mr. Stevenson thinks a tie score is the same as a victory, he is likely to lose the football vote next year.

After the 1954 election the Republicans had enrolled 48 senators and the Democrats 48. But the Republicans also had the vice president's vote, so the vote stood 49 Republicans to 48 Democrats. When, after the election, one senator, who had been nominated in a Republican primary in 1950 and elected that year as a Republican, switched his allegiance, this gave control to the Democrats last January by one vote. That's a far different thing, however, from achieving a victory at the polls in November 1954.

Not A Foreshadowing

Somewhat the same thing happened in the House of Representatives in 1930, midway in the term of President Hoover. The Republicans won 220 House seats and the Democrats 214 but, due to deaths on the Republican side, control shifted from the Republicans to the Democrats. It wasn't a victory for the Democrats in November 1930, but it is often erroneously referred to as such.

In the middle of President Truman's first term, the Republicans won both houses of Congress, but in 1948 Mr. Truman won and the Democrats recovered control of both houses of Congress. So a victory for one party in mid-term doesn't necessarily foreshadow a triumph by the same party in the next presidential election.

Yet it is repeatedly said that, when the House changes over during the middle of a presidential term, the party that won Congress "usually wins the next presidential campaign. Not only was this proved wrong in 1948 but even the 1910 precedent is ambiguous. For, while in 1910 the Democrats won the House, they failed in 1912 to poll the majority vote in the nation. Only the fact that there were two Republican nominees in the field to split the ticket gave the Democrats their control of Congress. On a straight-party vote, the Republicans polled more than the Democrats.

Disaffection here and there among congressional districts has often led to an overturn in seats in local contests. Thus in 1953, due to the farm recession, the Republicans lost a special election in Wisconsin and in 1954, when economic conditions turned sour, the Republicans lost a few more seats here and there.

No Rule Of Thumb

But just as the 1946 victory of the Republicans was erased in 1948 by the improvement in economic conditions, so may the 1956 elections overcome for the Republicans the losses they sustained in 1954. There is no rule of thumb about it. Each election stands on its own feet and is based on the then existing conditions.

There were, of course, in 1955 some serious evidences of disaffection inside the Republican organizations — as, for instance, in Indiana—but in New Jersey, where the 1954 factional bitterness has prevailed inside the party, the Republicans in 1955 retained control of both houses of the state legislature despite the election of a Democrat as governor the year before.

There is not the slightest evidence from recent elections that the country is ready to turn back to the radicalism of the New Deal or Fair Deal. Mr. Truman hailed Stevenson's speech of last Saturday night as "the best New Deal speech" he ever heard the former Illinois governor make. Yet Harriman didn't like it and criticized Stevenson's use of "moderation" as an Eisenhower word.

If there's to be a competition between Harriman and Stevenson as to who is the better exponent of New Dealism, the 1956 campaign can be forecast even this early. The country is not in a radical mood and is, on the whole, satisfied with the moderate approach taken by the Eisenhower administration.

Anti-Radicalism Rules

The best evidence of this is the way the bipartisan coalition which kept Trumanism in check is still operating. A combination of Democratic anti-radicals and a solid Republican vote brought about the passage of the Taft-Hartley Act and also the Subversive Control Law — both over Truman vetoes.

Ideologically speaking, therefore, an anti-radical coalition rules today in Congress, and Trumanism can hardly get any real comfort out of the 1954 tie in the Senate or the small margin of seats that the Democrats won in the House.

If economic conditions continue as they are today, the Republicans will win both houses of Congress in 1956 with a mandate against radicalism. The arguments which Messrs. Stevenson, Harriman and Kefauver are making to try to prove that the Democrats are the party of the "poor" while the Republicans are the party of the "rich" will not be persuasive. It will be hard, for instance, to convince the voters that poverty stalks in the land when even Democrats can afford to put up $100-a-plate for the privilege of eating at the party dinners.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Just as soon eat low on the turkey as high on the hog. It's okay if the wish-bone joins the jawbone. You can have the ankle-bone.

This is our 334th Thanksgiving. But what's years on the clock when it's a question of seconds on the plate?

We'll also go for thirds in a land flowing with milk and honey. We hope nobody ever stops that leak.

We're also putting the pie on the window-sill, shaking the tablecloth out of the window and feeding the birds. And have enough left over to hand out the back door.

You can make more friends with a meal than you can with a melee.

The great American historian Prescott said it all when he wrote of that laboratory of discontent—the empty stomach.

No reason for that today. Just pin your ears back and take three swings with your mess kit.

Cooperation Needed Between Medicine, Religion

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The combination of medical skill and prayer ought to be used more often. All hospital doors are open to the clergy but what is needed is closer cooperation between physician and minister, rabbi, or priest.

The gap between medicine and religion began to widen when medicine dropped sentiment, magic, and superstition and became more scientific. Penicillin worked so well in infections, it replaced prayer. Our surgeons became so skilled there was no need to be concerned about having the gall bladder removed or a fractured hip nailed into place.

The clergy was not consulted about the spiritual needs of the patient. Meanwhile, religion sniped away at science. After all, many aspects of physiology, bacteriology, and physics are not clear even to the experts. Furthermore, we have no suitable explanation for the cause and spread of cancer, hardening of the arteries, or involvement of the heart in rheumatic fever.

Because there are so many unaccountable factors in both the medical and metaphysical fields, the over-all situation is beginning to change. Each of these disciplines encompasses philosophies associated with existence, destiny, and death. Religion is grateful and physicians appreciate the reassurance the man of God brings to patients.

Many individuals with physical and emotional problems do not have organic disease. Some require the skill of a physician and quire the skill of a psychiatrist, particularly persons who are out of contact with reality or who have no insight into the cause of their problem. Those who are self-conscious or bewildered or burdened by self-pity, guilt or fear cannot live and work efficiently.

How different these men and women feel when their problems are aired thoroughly and their faith and confidence built up. A middle-aged woman with a functional ailment made the rounds of all her neighborhood physicians. She remained sick and troubled mentally and turned finally to religious guidance.

Here she found the help she needed and was overheard to say, "It's a glorious feeling to be able to face the world without a sense of guilt. I feel as though I had just been released from prison."

Many clergymen are specializing along this line; as consultants in hospitals, they give intelligent assistance to the physician, patient, and family.

One of the pioneers in this field, Russell L. Dicks, D. D., has gone a step further. He publishes a monthly digest, Religion & Health, which offers inspiration and down to earth suggestions to the ill person who is finding it difficult to adjust to the situations of life.

"Probably the best thing for you," nodded the visitor. "Who hurts the most?"

The brat answered, "I do."

People-To-People Friendship Idea Got Boost At Geneva Conference

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Many diplomats will consider me a Pollyanna when I predict that at least one thing can be salvaged from the abortive Geneva conference. I admit that Secretary Dulles's gloomy report to President Eisenhower gave little to be grateful for at this Thanksgiving season, but it seems to me you have to remember three important facts about the so-called spirit of Geneva:

1. The Madison Avenue publicity boys who surround the White House exaggerated the initial results of the Geneva conference all out of proportion and for pure political reasons.

2. Great forces in world politics do not come to a stop easily. You do not change the course of empires in a night. The Moslem world which set out to take over the Christian world by force of arms, kept at it for years, then suddenly found that it could live in peace beside the Christian world. The British empire took over enough of the globe so the sun never set on the Union Jack before it decided that trade could flourish without conquest. So it will take time to bring the forces of communism to a full stop. Despite the Madison Avenue boys, no president, no matter how charming his smile, could have made the Geneva spirit work in four years or even eight years

3. There was one important foot-in-the-door to peace scored at Geneva which can pry it open further —if we are smart, energetic, and don't get too easily discouraged. This was the exchange of people between Russia and the United States which Eisenhower proposed and which Bulganin accepted.

Though this has been battered and belittled since Geneva, the real fact is that it has already scored some success. It can score more.

Dulles's Blind Spot

The reason John Foster Dulles doesn't see the importance of this, and the reason he was so full of woe after his collapse at Geneva, was that Foster bet almost his whole stake on a united Germany. He bet his own prestige, the prestige of the United States, and the success of Geneva on a goal which he could not possibly win.

He was bound to lose for a very simple reason. If Germany is going to be united the Russians want to get the credit for uniting it. They don't want us to get the credit.

To understand Foster Dulles's poor poker strategy at Geneva you have to go back in his life almost 30 years when he was the lawyer for the big New York bankers who were pouring U.S. millions into Germany as a so-called "very sound investment" after World War I, and when Dulles, a respected grandson of a former secretary of state, made many statements assuring the public that their money was perfectly safe in Germany.

It was, of course, not safe at all. Most of it was lost as Hitler came into power. So Foster Dulles, as secretary of state, has cherished the great ambition of building a new and strong Germany—the kind he said was there in 1925 but which wasn't there at all.

While Dulles has been telling this to France in 1955, the French have been telling him in turn that he is all wet, that you cannot trust Germany, that Germany is sure to pull out of NATO and make a deal with Russia.

So Dulles's whole strategy at Geneva, and in fact all during the last three years, has been to prove France wrong and himself right. To do this he had to unite Germany. And he couldn't unite Germany without Russian cooperation.

Under Ike's Smile

So Foster's strategy at the first Geneva conference was to force Russia, under the glow and glamor of Ike's smile, to come to terms on Germany. Bulganin, Khrushchev, et al, would not want to break up the happy hands across the iron curtain, Dulles figured, by blocking the unity of Germany, so he plugged this ahead of everything else at the summit meeting.

For Dulles knew that if he didn't unite Germany, the Russians would, and the price they would exact in return was West Germany's withdrawal from NATO.

However, Foster also knew, or should have known, that the Russians weren't going to budge an inch on uniting Germany unless they got the credit. No good poker player discards his aces, and the great game of diplomacy is pretty much like poker.

So in real fact, Foster Dulles was playing diplomacy at Geneva with the blindfold of self-delusion over his head.

Power Politics

He also seemed surprised, if not deluded, when the Russians went into Egypt with offers of arms, experts, and money while the spirit of Geneva was supposedly pervading the countryside.

He should not, however, have been surprised. For his ambassador in Moscow, Chip Bohlen, had reported in some detail that the Russians were sore as blazes because we had gone into Iran at their own back door and signed a military alliance — also when the spirit of Geneva was supposedly pervading the countryside.

Foster also knew, or, if he didn't remember, his Russian experts were there to remind him, that the Russkies always move on the European chess board to counter our moves. When we moved into Turkey and Greece with the Truman doctrine, they moved into Czechoslovakia. And when we tightened our ties with Italy they took over Hungary.

This, of course, is standard procedure in power politics. We don't welcome it, but every nation does it, and we have done it ourselves.

When we were a much weaker nation, for instance, made doubly weak by the Civil War and when the British were making noises about regaining certain parts of the Western Hemisphere, we got the Russians to station their fleet in New York Harbor. This was power politics of the kind we appreciated.

Bensonophobia

By Stewart Alsop

DUBUQUE, Iowa

There is only one issue in this part of the Middle West. It is, of course, the farm issue. But you have to smell the political atmosphere in this area to realize just how big an issue the farm issue is.

Republican chances of holding the Middle Western Republican heartland next year are seriously threatened by farm discontent. In talks with large number of politicians, reporters, and even some farmers, this reporter has not found one who does not believe that this is so. For example, one Iowa farm leader, a Taft Republican, has said flatly that Iowa is dead certain to go Democratic in 1956 if the present trend continues. Man neutral political observers agree. A Democratic win in Iowa could only mean a Democratic landslide nationally.

Nor is there any doubt that the name of that able and honorable man, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, is sheer political poison in this area. In a way, this Bensonophobia is mysterious. Most Easterners suppose that the 90 per cent of parity formula is the central farm issue. Actually especially here in Iowa, which is essentially a livestock producing state rather than a grain state, many farmers have little more use for rigid 90 per cent supports than Benson himself.

Partly Benson's Fault

Yet these same farmers, at the protest meetings which are beginning to be held in many parts of the Middle West, stamp their feet or hoot in derision when Benson's name is mentioned. In part, this is no doubt Benson's fault—he has an unfortunate habit of issuing complacent statements forecasting upturns just before pork or corn hit new lows.

But this is only a small part of the reason for Benson's unpopularity. In the Middle West, Benson is not so much a person as a symbol. As a symbol of farm discontent, Benson's name has of course been exploited to the utmost by the Democrats, but the rebellious mood of many farmers in the Middle West is no mere Democratic plot.

A small incident which occurred in the office of the great Iowa newspapers, the Des Moines Register and the Tribune, suggests what farm discontent is all about. Thomas E. Martin, Iowa's Republican junior senator, was visiting the papers, and he was asked by the able farm editor, James R. Russell, how he felt. "Fine, Jim, just fine," the senator replied, beaming.

Feel Discrimination

"Take a look at these headlines," Russell replied, "and you won't feel so fine." The headlines read something like this: Hogs At 14 Year Low . . . Stock Market Nears All Time Peak . . . Corn Down Again . . . Organized Labor Makes New Gains. After a thoughtful look, Martin agree that maybe he didn't feel so fine after all.

It is a sense of being left out, of being discriminated against, that seems to enrage the farmers, even more than the sharp drop in farm income. One astute farm editor here put it this way. "Suppose you were one of three people in an office, all doing the same job. Suppose the other two got raises and you got your pay docked 25 or 30 per cent, while your boss kept telling you not to worry and everything was dandy. Wouldn't you be feeling kind of mad?"

The farmer feels, in short that business and organized labor are skimming off all the gravy at his expense, while he has no means to protect himself economically. It is no use pointing out that the farmer himself got plenty of gravy in his time. Nor is it any use pointing out that a good many family-size farms are simply not efficient economic units any more. A farm policy based on this economically justifiable assumption would be political suicide.

Double Crisis

The fact is that the sharp drop in farm income amounts to a kind of double crisis. One crisis is political. The Democrats are under heavy temptation to try to buy the farm vote, at any price. And many of the smartest Republicans in this area are scared blue, a condition which does not often lead to sensible policy-making. There is hardly a major Republican leader in this part of the Middle West who has not urged, publicly or privately the firing of Secretary Benson.

But firing Benson is not going to solve anything, not even the political troubles of the Republicans. For the trouble in the farm belt is more than a purely political crisis. It could easily lead to a genuine national crisis.

Until two years ago, it was a universally accepted doctrine that the farmers would continue to prosper as long as the national income rose. This doctrine has now been knocked into a cocked hat. National income has gone steadily up, while farm income has gone steadily down. Something has gone seriously wrong somewhere. And the political leadership which can address itself sensibly and effectively to what has gone wrong is very likely to capture the White House in 1956.

Plane Sabotage Causes Concern

It is difficult to imagine a crime much more shocking and more callous than the one with which a 23-year-old Denver man named John Gilbert Graham stands charged. Graham, according to the FBI, is the man responsible for the tragic crash of a United Airlines plane on November 1 in which 44 people died.

The FBI believes his motive was to collect $37,500 in insurance on his mother's life. His mother, who was aboard the plane, had spent the past four years scraping up $2,500 to help pay back money which Graham had stolen on a check forging spree.

But what concerns the public chiefly is not Graham and whether or not he gets his just desserts, if he is convicted of this crime. It is how the commercial air lines, and the passengers who travel on them, can be protected against this type of mass murder.

There has been, to be sure, only one similar crime in all the annals of commercial flight. Moreover, most individuals bent on murder, it is assumed, would flinch at the thought of slaying dozens of innocent people at one stroke. Even most murderers have some scruples, or the prospect would be more grim than it is. But the poser is how to protect air travelers from the individual who will coldbloodedly condemn scores of complete strangers to death in order to kill the one person who has become the target of his twisted mind.

The tragedy raises a whole set of questions to which there are no satisfactory answers. Does the ready availability of cheap life insurance at most air terminals constitute a temptation to men like Graham? Would it be possible or feasible to screen all passengers and examine all luggage, by X-ray or otherwise, as a precaution against something of this sort?

The answer is, probably not. But this is the sort of thing that must give both the FBI and the air lines real and deep concern as long as the possibility of sabotage of a plane in flight remains.

Repetition Of Inaccuracy Brings Belief As Truth

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's a tribute to the power of reiteration that, if an inaccuracy is repeated often enough, it begins to be accepted as truth.

Thus, Adlai Stevenson told a nationwide audience last Saturday night that the Democrats "won both houses of Congress in 1954." Many other speakers have been saying the same thing in recent months.

The fact is that the Democrats didn't "win" the Senate. They tied it. And if Mr. Stevenson thinks a tie score is the same as a victory, he is likely to lose the football vote next year.

After the 1954 election the Republicans had enrolled 48 senators and the Democrats 48. But the Republicans also had the vice president's vote, so the vote stood 49 Republicans to 48 Democrats. When, after the election, one senator, who had been nominated in a Republican primary in 1950 and elected that year as a Republican, switched his allegiance, this gave control to the Democrats last January by one vote. That's a far different thing, however, from achieving a victory at the polls in November 1954.

Not A Foreshadowing

Somewhat the same thing happened in the House of Representatives in 1930, midway in the term of President Hoover. The Republicans won 220 House seats and the Democrats 214 but, due to deaths on the Republican side, control shifted from the Republicans to the Democrats. It wasn't a victory for the Democrats in November 1930, but it is often erroneously referred to as such.

In the middle of President Truman's first term, the Republicans won both houses of Congress, but in 1948 Mr. Truman won and the Democrats recovered control of both houses of Congress. So a victory for one party in mid-term doesn't necessarily foreshadow a triumph by the same party in the next presidential election.

Yet it is repeatedly said that, when the House changes over during the middle of a presidential term, the party that won Congress "usually wins the next presidential campaign. Not only was this proved wrong in 1948 but even the 1910 precedent is ambiguous. For, while in 1910 the Democrats won the House, they failed in 1912 to poll the majority vote in the nation. Only the fact that there were two Republican nominees in the field to split the ticket gave the Democrats their control of Congress. On a straight-party vote, the Republicans polled more than the Democrats.

Disaffection here and there among congressional districts has often led to an overturn in seats in local contests. Thus in 1953, due to the farm recession, the Republicans lost a special election in Wisconsin and in 1954, when economic conditions turned sour, the Republicans lost a few more seats here and there.

No Rule Of Thumb

But just as the 1946 victory of the Republicans was erased in 1948 by the improvement in economic conditions, so may the 1956 elections overcome for the Republicans the losses they sustained in 1954. There is no rule of thumb about it. Each election stands on its own feet and is based on the then existing conditions.

There were, of course, in 1955 some serious evidences of disaffection inside the Republican organizations — as, for instance, in Indiana—but in New Jersey, where the 1954 factional bitterness has prevailed inside the party, the Republicans in 1955 retained control of both houses of the state legislature despite the election of a Democrat as governor the year before.

There is not the slightest evidence from recent elections that the country is ready to turn back to the radicalism of the New Deal or Fair Deal. Mr. Truman hailed Stevenson's speech of last Saturday night as "the best New Deal speech" he ever heard the former Illinois governor make. Yet Harriman didn't like it and criticized Stevenson's use of "moderation" as an Eisenhower word.

If there's to be a competition between Harriman and Stevenson as to who is the better exponent of New Dealism, the 1956 campaign can be forecast even this early. The country is not in a radical mood and is, on the whole, satisfied with the moderate approach taken by the Eisenhower administration.

Anti-Radicalism Rules

The best evidence of this is the way the bipartisan coalition which kept Trumanism in check is still operating. A combination of Democratic anti-radicals and a solid Republican vote brought about the passage of the Taft-Hartley Act and also the Subversive Control Law — both over Truman vetoes.

Ideologically speaking, therefore, an anti-radical coalition rules today in Congress, and Trumanism can hardly get any real comfort out of the 1954 tie in the Senate or the small margin of seats that the Democrats won in the House.

If economic conditions continue as they are today, the Republicans will win both houses of Congress in 1956 with a mandate against radicalism. The arguments which Messrs. Stevenson, Harriman and Kefauver are making to try to prove that the Democrats are the party of the "poor" while the Republicans are the party of the "rich" will not be persuasive. It will be hard, for instance, to convince the voters that poverty stalks in the land when even Democrats can afford to put up $100-a-plate for the privilege of eating at the party dinners.

Bensonophobia

By Stewart Alsop

DUBUQUE, Iowa

There is only one issue in this part of the Middle West. It is, of course, the farm issue. But you have to smell the political atmosphere in this area to realize just how big an issue the farm issue is.

Republican chances of holding the Middle Western Republican heartland next year are seriously threatened by farm discontent. In talks with large number of politicians, reporters, and even some farmers, this reporter has not found one who does not believe that this is so. For example, one Iowa farm leader, a Taft Republican, has said flatly that Iowa is dead certain to go Democratic in 1956 if the present trend continues. Man neutral political observers agree. A Democratic win in Iowa could only mean a Democratic landslide nationally.

Nor is there any doubt that the name of that able and honorable man, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, is sheer political poison in this area. In a way, this Bensonophobia is mysterious. Most Easterners suppose that the 90 per cent of parity formula is the central farm issue. Actually especially here in Iowa, which is essentially a livestock producing state rather than a grain state, many farmers have little more use for rigid 90 per cent supports than Benson himself.

Partly Benson's Fault

Yet these same farmers, at the protest meetings which are beginning to be held in many parts of the Middle West, stamp their feet or hoot in derision when Benson's name is mentioned. In part, this is no doubt Benson's fault—he has an unfortunate habit of issuing complacent statements forecasting upturns just before pork or corn hit new lows.

But this is only a small part of the reason for Benson's unpopularity. In the Middle West, Benson is not so much a person as a symbol. As a symbol of farm discontent, Benson's name has of course been exploited to the utmost by the Democrats, but the rebellious mood of many farmers in the Middle West is no mere Democratic plot.

A small incident which occurred in the office of the great Iowa newspapers, the Des Moines Register and the Tribune, suggests what farm discontent is all about. Thomas E. Martin, Iowa's Republican junior senator, was visiting the papers, and he was asked by the able farm editor, James R. Russell, how he felt. "Fine, Jim, just fine," the senator replied, beaming.

Feel Discrimination

"Take a look at these headlines," Russell replied, "and you won't feel so fine." The headlines read something like this: Hogs At 14 Year Low . . . Stock Market Nears All Time Peak . . . Corn Down Again . . . Organized Labor Makes New Gains. After a thoughtful look, Martin agree that maybe he didn't feel so fine after all.

It is a sense of being left out, of being discriminated against, that seems to enrage the farmers, even more than the sharp drop in farm income. One astute farm editor here put it this way. "Suppose you were one of three people in an office, all doing the same job. Suppose the other two got raises and you got your pay docked 25 or 30 per cent, while your boss kept telling you not to worry and everything was dandy. Wouldn't you be feeling kind of mad?"

The farmer feels, in short that business and organized labor are skimming off all the gravy at his expense, while he has no means to protect himself economically. It is no use pointing out that the farmer himself got plenty of gravy in his time. Nor is it any use pointing out that a good many family-size farms are simply not efficient economic units any more. A farm policy based on this economically justifiable assumption would be political suicide.

Double Crisis

The fact is that the sharp drop in farm income amounts to a kind of double crisis. One crisis is political. The Democrats are under heavy temptation to try to buy the farm vote, at any price. And many of the smartest Republicans in this area are scared blue, a condition which does not often lead to sensible policy-making. There is hardly a major Republican leader in this part of the Middle West who has not urged, publicly or privately the firing of Secretary Benson.

But firing Benson is not going to solve anything, not even the political troubles of the Republicans. For the trouble in the farm belt is more than a purely political crisis. It could easily lead to a genuine national crisis.

Until two years ago, it was a universally accepted doctrine that the farmers would continue to prosper as long as the national income rose. This doctrine has now been knocked into a cocked hat. National income has gone steadily up, while farm income has gone steadily down. Something has gone seriously wrong somewhere. And the political leadership which can address itself sensibly and effectively to what has gone wrong is very likely to capture the White House in 1956.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Thanksgiving 1955

The day for giving thanks to God for His bounty to us in the United States has become a long weekend during the autumn, a weekend of turkey and cranberries and pumpkin pie. The table groans heavily with home-cooked food, but at too few tables does the Pater Familias rise to thank God for the food which we enjoy in such enormous plentitude.

We Americans have so much to be thankful for—so much more than for our food and clothes and automobiles and television sets. While these material things are of some value, they are not really the essence of our lives. What we call our high standard of living is the economic side of our lives, but infinitely more essential are our liberties.

We need to be thankful that we live in an orderly society where even the wrong-doer knows his rights under the law—the right of trial by jury, the right to a lawyer of his own choosing, the right to protection from double-jeojardy, the right to protection from self-incrimination, the right of bail and of appeal. If such rights are important to the wrong-doer, they are even more important to the person who lives within the law. For neither the tyranny of government nor of an organized minority nor of the mob may abuse the rights of an individual without violating the law.

We should be thankful that in this orderly society changes of government occur regularly and at stated periods without violence. It is a mark of civilization that the people should have freedom of the choice of their own government. It is a mark of maturity that that choice should not be achieved by violence. Those who fail to receive the acknowledgment of the people's will retire to private life and even oblivion. Those who emerge to leadership recognize that they are responsible to those who chose them and are not elevated by their own will. Such an orderly system safeguards the lives and happiness of the people who enjoy an election and never fear it.

We need to be thankful that we enjoy freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of the press. It is true that in recent years, these freedoms have been confused by the assumption that men also should enjoy freedom of subversion and corruption and that espionage could be regarded as freedom of thought. If such a doctrine were to be accepted, it would be a negation of the fundamental obligation to respect the rights of each other.

In a word, if the rights of individuals are to be preserved, the obligation of each individual not to interfere with or abuse the rights of every other individual must be automatic. True, the press enjoys freedom, but it is limited by libel laws; it may not be salacious or malicious. True, there is freedom of speech, but slander is a protective against freedom being converted into anarchy. In acknowledging the Natural Law, God's guide to man, we limit liberty by virtue lest liberty become license. But we do it in freedom, by the will of the people, not by the dictum of mortal man.

We thank God that despite two wars and a prolonged economic depression, we have not been forced into a way of life which subverts man to a creature of the state, an enslavement which reduces the individual to a thing to be used by the state without regard to the inalienable rights and dignity of the individual human being. After all our troubles, we have reverted to the American concept of basing our economic system on the law of supply and demand, on competition, on free inventiveness and initiative.

We pray that the day may come when we shall be freed from oppressive taxes, oppressively collected—taxes which we ourselves voted to safeguard our country and our civilization. When the day comes that taxes are reduced, we shall strengthen our families in the traditional American concept that the family is the heart of our society.

We have so much to be thankful for this year and most of all that we have peace, that most of our sons are at home and are not fighting in wars. And we pray God that His face will shine upon us and give us eternal peace.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Just as soon eat low on the turkey as high on the hog. It's okay if the wish-bone joins the jaw-bone. You can have the ankle-bone.

This is our 334th Thanksgiving. But what's years on the clock when it's a question of seconds on the plate?

We'll also go for thirds in a land flowing with milk and honey. We hope nobody ever stops that leak.

We're also putting the pie on the window-sill, shaking the tablecloth out of the window and feeding the birds. And have enough left over to hand out the back door.

You can make more friends with a meal than you can with a melee.

The great American historian Prescott said it all when he wrote of that laboratory of discontent—the empty stomach.

No reason for that today. Just pin your ears back and take three swings with your mess kit.

Cooperation Needed Between Medicine, Religion

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The combination of medical skill and prayer ought to be used more often. All hospital doors are open to the clergy but what is needed is closer cooperation between physician and minister, rabbi, or priest.

The gap between medicine and religion began to widen when medicine dropped sentiment, magic, and superstition and became more scientific. Penicillin worked so well in infections, it replaced prayer. Our surgeons became so skilled there was no need to be concerned about having the gall bladder removed or a fractured hip nailed into place.

The clergy was not consulted about the spiritual needs of the patient. Meanwhile, religion sniped away at science. After all, many aspects of physiology, bacteriology, and physics are not clear even to the experts. Furthermore, we have no suitable explanation for the cause and spread of cancer, hardening of the arteries, or involvement of the heart in rheumatic fever.

Because there are so many unaccountable factors in both the medical and metaphysical fields, the over-all situation is beginning to change. Each of these disciplines encompasses philosophies associated with existence, destiny, and death. Religion is grateful for every medical discovery and physicians appreciate the reassurance the man of God brings to patients.

Many individuals with physical and emotional problems do not have organic disease. Some require the skill of a physician and quire the skill of a psychiatrist, particularly persons who are out of contact with reality or who have no insight into the cause of their problem. Those who are self-conscious or bewildered or burdened by self-pity, guilt or fear cannot live and work efficiently.

How different these men and women feel when their problems are aired thoroughly and their faith and confidence built up. A middle-aged woman with a functional ailment made the rounds of all her neighborhood physicians. She remained sick and troubled mentally and turned finally to religious guidance.

Here she found the help she needed and was overheard to say, "It's a glorious feeling to be able to face the world without a sense of guilt. I feel as though I had just been released from prison."

Many clergymen are specializing along this line; as consultants in hospitals, they give intelligent assistance to the physician, patient, and family.

One of the pioneers in this field, Russell L. Dicks, D. D., has gone a step further. He publishes a monthly digest, Religion & Health, which offers inspiration and down to earth suggestions to the ill person who is finding it difficult to adjust to the situations of life.

SARCOID DISEASE

Reply

No. It is a generalized disease involving many organs of the body. It has all the earmarks of infection and although the causative agent has not been discovered, most authorities belive the organism resembles those responsible for tuberculosis or leprosy.

It may be habit or a sign of early Parkinsonism. There is a possibility also that she finally is saying yes.

RENAL TUBERCULOSIS

S. D. writes: In tuberculosis of the kidney, is the infected organ removed?

Reply

This was usually done before the advent of streptomycin, PAS, and the isoniazids. Nowadays, these drugs are used first and if they are unsuccessful in controlling the infection, surgery may be needed.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

In a Hollywod studio, Corinne Calvert was given an extremely low-cut gown to wear for a ballroom scene. "One inch lower," she observed tartly, "and we'd have to make this picture in Italy."

"What this house needs is more modern methods in bringing up children," announced a precocious 9-year-old to an astonished visitor. "Let me get just a bit out of line, and either my father or my mother feels called upon to give me a sound spanking. They sort of take turns at it."

"Probably the best thing for you," nodded the visitor. "Who hurts the most?"

The brat answered, "I do."

Magazine Bares Red Plan For Conquest Of Africa

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Newsweek magazine says it is revealing for the first time a Communist blueprint for the conquest of Africa.

The magazine, in its issue out today, says its information comes from "a newly defected Iron Curtain intelligence agent, intimate with names, places and other significant facts."

It does not name the agent but says "the information is known and vouched for by Western intelligence."

The Kremlin, the magazine continues, decided to give highest priority to infiltration of Africa, enlistment of all existing Communists and Communist-front organizations behind nationalist movements there, and full support to all forms of revolutionary violence and religious fanaticism.

Named as the Kremlin's choice to implement the new policy, Newsweek says, was Mikhail A. Suslov, chief of the Communist party's International Bureau and a member of the party Presidium.

One of his first steps, according to the magazine, was to set up special training schools for native Africans recruited from all African countries. Adds Newsweek:

"The rigorous discipline demanded of the trainees was so severe that many broke down under the strain and had to be flunked."

Another step, Newsweek says, was Czechoslovak expeditions to Africa of highly trained propaganda experts, traveling under the guise of scientific exploration. Their job is said to be the establishment and maintenance of "a network of agents and correspondents."

Third achievement under the new policy, Newsweek goes on, is a revival in Africa of "the nucleus of an underground commando force."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23 (INS)—Influence that Anna Magnani could not resist was brought to bear on her to come here for the city of hope premier of "Rose Tatoo" Dec. 13 and for the New York premiere Dec. 14.

Hal Wallis offered to pay all expenses from Italy for Anna and her son, Luca,, who is a polio victim. Hal explained to her that the boy could get polio treatment here that would benefit him, and Anna, who is a devoted mother, consented.

There will be great whoop-de-do about both premieres. In Hollywood proceeds go to the city of hope. In New York the actors studio gets the proceeds.

Marlon Brando, former member of the actors studio, and Marilyn Monroe, now studying there, are posing for pictures. Marilyn, Margaret Truman, Jayne Mansfield and Viveca Lindsfors will serve as ushers for the premiere of "Rose Tatoo" with Helen Hayes as usherettes, with Helen Hayes as You can get all the tea in China that Mario Lanza won't move from the Warner lot for his next picture. He's completely sold on Jack Warner and says Jack understands him. To all who listen he arves about his boss.

Mario's happiness was complete today when the Metropolitan opera soprano, Licia Albanese, arrived on the set. She will sing the entire third act of Verdi's "Othello" with Mario. He wanted an opera singer, and what a one he got!

Do you know who has the inside track as the leading lady in the Louis L'Amour western Marlon Brando is making? An unknown girl by the name of Jenny Miller, of St. Louis, whom Marlon met on the street last summer and told he was interested in for a picture.

She has been studying with vocal coach Eddie Lear for a year and Marlon is very proud of his discovery.

Free lancing has been very profitable for dark-eyed, pretty May Wynn, who had her screen debut in "Caine Mutiny," with the late Robert Francis. She has had four leads in TV shows in the past few weeks.

Her latest is "Incident on the Titanic," in which she appears for the Screen Directors Playhouse, co-starring with Leo Genn. May is very enthusiastic over Leo, saying what a fine actor he is and how much she is enjoying working with him, and how he helped her. She's a happy girl with all these TV offers lined up.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher get here Friday, but Debbie remains only two weeks. She goes back to New York for three days of location work for "Catered Affair," then back home.

Playwright Anita Loos' husband, John Emerson, has been critically ill in a Pasadena sanitorium. John was once a famous screen writer.

The Van Heflins have become very chummy with the Duchess of Windsor, who has been to see "View From the Bridge" four times and usually goes backstage to chat with Van and Frances.

Frank Sinatra was so tired after "Man With the Golden Arm," in which he is in practically every scene, he went to bed in Palm Springs and slept for hours.

The cutest twosome in town is Ronnie Burns and Myrna Hansen who met on the Burns and Allen show—they're his pa and ma.

That's all today. See you Saturday.

Court Rules City Liable For Damage, Injury From Mob Violence

CHICAGO, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Illinois Appellate Court ruled yesterday a city can be held responsible for damages and injury resulting from mob violence.

The decision by three judges was a victory for Wilbert K. Slaton, Negro, injured in 1947 in racial disorders at the Fernwood Park Public Housing Project on the South Side.

In the Circuit Court the city had won a directed verdict of acquittal. The Appellate Court reversed this finding and ordered the suit retried. Its opinion said in part:

"No group or segment of a community has the right to dictate by force or other unlawful means who shall or shall not live within a community."

It declared a victim of force has the right of redress against the city for not preventing unlawful assembly.

Slaton, who had no connection with the housing project or the disorders there, sued for damages under the state law for suppression of mob violence.

He related he was hit by stones while driving near the project Aug. 14, 1947. He alleged police were nowhere in sight. He said a stone knocked him unconscious and a woman passenger in his car also was hit.

The Chinch bug destroys grain in the United States to the sad tune of $100 million annually.

New York City's Riverside church contains a carillon of 70 bells, the largest in the world.

Motor Vehicle Registration In County Shows Increase

The annual report of the Department of Motor Vehicles for Maryland shows that the tax collector for Allegany County issued 20,217 licenses for passenger cars and trucks for the fiscal year ending June 30.

This is an increase over the previous year when only 18,646 licenses were issued for these vehicles. The increase totals 1,571.

The value of the licenses for 1955 was $237,758 and in 1954 the total was $217,746. The tax collector for Allegany County sent $163,471.50 to the state agency in registration fees in lieu of personal property taxes. In return the state sent back $12,521.50 for registration fees from Classes A to J. The county also received an additional $150,950 for registration fees for the year ended June 30.

The $150,950 is allotted between the county and incorporated towns. County officials explain that the state sends back $5 for each $15 license fee paid by a resident here. If the car owner resides in an incorporated town the money is split 50-50 between the county and town. When the car owner resides outside an incorporated town the entire amount goes to the county.

In Garrett County there was a slight increase in licenses issued in 1955 as compared to 1954. The current licenses numbered 4,646 as compared to 4,515 in 1954. The value of the license rose from $61,697 in 1954 to $62,641 in the current year.

The Garrett County treasurer sent $45,929 to the state. The state in turn sent back $4,456 and $41,473.

Annual Dog Show Profits Over $700

More than $700 was realized from proceeds of the second annual dog show of the Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club, according to Mrs. Earl Smith, chairman, who said the money will be donated to the Civitan Club of Cumberland.

The Civitan Club, Mrs. Smith explained, uses the proceeds for the organization's project of preventing deafness in the children of Allegany County. The major portion of the money used in the project goes for the cost of necessary operations, such as tonsilectomies. Mrs. Smith added.

Total income from the show amounted to $3,083.80, with entry fees, admissions and the sale of advertising comprising the bulk of that amount. The total expenses were $2,392.31, with the judges fees and the amount paid to the Foley Dog Show organization totaling more than half of that sum.

Mrs. Smith said a complete financial report could not be made as returns from advertising are still coming in. However, it is doubtful if the final report will bring the proceeds up to the $987 realized from last year's dog show, Mrs. Smith said.

10 Supervisors Are Named For New Pittsburgh Plate Glass Plant

Appointments of ten supervisory officials to the management staff of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's 34-million-dollar plate glass manufacturing plant currently under construction here have been announced by Robert M. Hainsfurther, manager of the ultra-modern plant.

Robert H. Loffert, assistant of the tank department at Creighton, Pa., has been appointed assistant superintendent and will be assigned to various departments, probably starting in the tank department.

John B. White, superintendent of the tank department at Ford City, Pa., has been named superintendent of production and will supervise all production departments and yard operations.

John W. Nelley, formerly with Glass Division Engineering in the company's Pittsburgh headquarters, has been appointed superintendent of the tank department.

Richard H. Ross, general foreman of the tank department at Creighton, has been appointed general foreman of the tank department at Cumberland.

Harry A. Smith Jr., general foreman of the grinding and polishing department at Creighton, has been named superintendent of grinding and polishing.

Robert C. Perry, assistant superintendent of the polishing and grinding department at Crystal City, Mo., has been appointed to a similar position at the Cumberland plant.

John W. Willits, general foreman at Ford City, has been named warehouse superintendent.

Ray G. Joiner, methods engineer at Ford City, has been appointed chief industrial engineer.

Harry S. Drury Jr., formerly mechanical engineer at Crystal City and more recently with Glass Division Engineering, has been named plant engineer.

Roy W. Yunker, electrical engineer at Creighton, has been appointed plant engineer.

More Than 1,000 species of trees grow in commercial forest lands in the United States, but most of the nation's lumber needs are supplied by about 35 species.

Country Club Has Election

William A. Douglas was re-elected president and George L. Buchanan was elected vice president of the Cumberland Country Club and Evitts Creek Land Improvement Company, Inc., at the annual meeting Tuesday at the Country Club.

Buchanan succeeds A. W. Conley, former B. & O. Cumberland Division superintendent recently transferred to Baltimore, as vice president.

All directors, including Douglas and Buchanan, were also reelected. They include Albert Carlson, reelected secretary - treasurer; George F. Garlitz, Somerville Nicholson, Edgar D. Vandegrift and W. D. Claus.

Motor Vehicle Registration In County Shows Increase

The annual report of the Department of Motor Vehicles for Maryland shows that the tax collector for Allegany County issued 20,217 licenses for passenger cars and trucks for the fiscal year ending June 30.

This is an increase over the previous year when only 18,646 licenses were issued for these vehicles. The increase totals 1,571.

The value of the licenses for 1955 was $237,758 and in 1954 the total was $217,746. The tax collector for Allegany County sent $183,471.50 to the state agency in registration fees in lieu of personal property taxes. In return the state sent back $12,521.50 for registration fees from Classes A to J. The county also received an additional $150,950 for registration fees for the year ended June 30.

The $150,950 is allotted between the county and incorporated towns. County officials explain that the state sends back $5 for each $15 license fee paid by a resident here. If the car owner resides in an incorporated town the money is split 50-50 between the county and town. When the car owner resides outside an incorporated town the entire amount goes to the county.

In Garrett County there was a slight increase in licenses issued in 1955 as compared to 1954. The current licenses numbered 4,646 as compared to 4,515 in 1954. The value of the license rose from $61,697 in 1954 to $62,641 in the current year.

The Garrett County treasurer sent $45,929 to the state. The state in turn sent back $4,456 and $43,473.

Annual Dog Show Profits Over $700

More than $700 was realized from proceeds of the second annual dog show of the Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club, according to Mrs. Earl Smith, chairman, who said the money will be donated to the Civitan Club of Cumberland.

The Civitan Club, Mrs. Smith explained, uses the proceeds for the organization's project of preventing deafness in the children of Allegany County. The major portion of the money used in the project goes for the cost of necessary operations, such as tonsilectomies, Mrs. Smith added.

Total income from the show amounted to $3,083.60, with entry fees, admissions and the sale of advertising comprising the bulk of that amount. The total expenses were $2,392.31, with the judges fees and the amount paid to the Foley Dog Show organization totaling more than half of that sum.

Mrs. Smith said a complete financial report could not be made as returns from advertising are still coming in. However, it is doubtful if the final report will bring the proceeds up to the $987 realized from last year's dog show, Mrs. Smith said.

Israeli-Arab Situation Becoming More Difficult, Truce Supervisor Says

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Nov. 23 (AP)—The man who supervises the uneasy truce between Israel and the Arab states believes the situation is becoming steadily more difficult.

Canadian Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns, chief of staff of the U.N. truce supervision organization, said in an interview:

"World leaders are showing renewed concern over the tension here and that is perhaps a good sign. But other than this, there is no real indication of progress toward a solution."

The stocky 58-year-old World War II 1st Canadian Corps commander has a strange job for a soldier. His only victory will be to prevent war.

He has a tough job, too, for a diplomat. He must give good advice from the "Hill of Evil Counsel."

His headquarters and living quarters are in an old British mandate "government house" on a hill which got its name because there Judas accepted his 30 pieces of silver.

The former fighting man now turned peacemaker doubts the practicability of recent proposals from the United States to enforce a truce by stationing United Nations troops in the buffer zone between the tense Israeli and Egyptian armies.

"If it was only in the Nizana-El Auja sector," he said — referring to the 14-mile-long disputed zone on the Negev-Sinai frontier where the Israelis and Egyptians clashed early this month — "it might be done with about 100 men."

"But the real trouble would be to empty such a buffer zone. I doubt if, at the present time, either side would agree to pull back its troops."

The general said the plan would run into far greater difficulties if attempted along the whole 30-mile Gaza Strip.

"There," he said, "the size of the force required probably would be so large as to be unfeasible."

The general, who has talked for hours with military and political leaders of both sides, doubts whether either at present is prepared to accept third party arbitration.

Burns' job is not to work out such a settlement. He and his organization of 40 U.S., French, Belgain, Danish, Swedish, Canadian and New Zealand officers are here only "to supervise" the truce worked out in the 1949 armistice agreements.

Burns came here 14 months ago "with an open mind and I believe I still have one."

He explains: "When I talk to one side, I keep thinking how reasonable the other side is."

His objectivity contributed largely to easing the situation on Israel's borders with Lebanon, Syria and Jordan, but the Egyptian-Israeli frontier, especially the disputed Gaza Strip and El Auja-Nizana front, has been a bitter disappointment to him.

It's lonely on the Hill of Evil Counsel. He lives there alone. His officers live on one side or another of the frontiers according to the observation zones to which they are assigned.

His immediate predecessor, Danish Gen. Vagn Bennike, lived on the Arab side of the line and the Israeli press called him pro-Arab. Before Bennike, American Gen. William Riley lived on the Israeli side and the Arab press called him pro-Israeli.

"My friends on both sides seemed to prefer that I live in the middle," Burns said. "So that's where I am—in the middle."

That point in the earth's orbit which is most istant from the sun, 94,560,000 miles, is called the "aphelion."

Processed Yule Tree Shortage Facing Nation

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 23 (AP)—Because the harvest has been slowed by unseasonable snow and cold, the nation faces a shortage of processed Christmas trees for the holidays.

Spokesmen for two Duluth evergreen processing firms said today that few trees have been cut since Nov. 1, normally a peak harvest time, because of the heavy weather in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Roy E. Halvorson, president of Halvorson Trees, Inc., said his firm, normally processing more than a million trees, would be unable to fill 300,000 orders.

Paul Hedrick, manager of Kirk-Minnesota Co., said that company would be short 15,000 trees on its normal annual production of about 750,000. He said the snow, covering tops of trees, makes selection impossible and the low temperatures make the trees too brittle to handle.

Both Halvorson and Hedrick said the shortage would be even greater if a large number of trees had not been harvested prior to the snowfall.

Grocer's Appeal Spares Customer Who Robbed Him

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23 (AP) — A customer is a grocer's best friend —especially if he buys a lot of groceries—and a fellow can overlook anything to keep such a customer, even a robbery.

This was the case in Criminal Court recently when George Shook, pleaded guilty to armed robbery of Norman Krell, a grocer. Shook and a pal obtained $55 in the holdup but the money was recovered and returned to Krell.

After Shook pleaded guilty, Krell asked Judge Walter P. Smart to be lenient, declaring:

"He's still one of my best customers. He pays his bill all the time and I don't want to lose him as a customer. We're friends."

Judge Smart blinked, took another look at Shook and placed him on probation for five years.

Ben Youssef's Return To Moroccan Throne Brings Back Array Of Titles

[By The Associated Press]

The return of the strong and bold Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef to the throne of Morocco brings back into prominence a dazzling array of noble titles in the Moslem faith and his royal court.

They may seem somewhat puzzling as well as dazzling. Even a Moslem elsewhere in the Islamic belt around the earth's midriff, from Gibraltar to the Philippines, might not understand some of the titles of hierarchy or how they are used.

The set-up is peculiar to Morocco in word and usage because of tribal and other deviations over more than a thousand years and nearly half a century under French overlordship.

The tight rein France held on Morocco during the interim reign of Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa gave the nobles little chance to emerge from a cloistered existence. Now it may be different. The feudal social system is inherent in the land Mohammed Ben Youssef has proclaimed independent, and pasha-hood may be again in flower.

Stratifying the upper ranks is complicated by the fact that some are powerful in religion alone, some in the state only, some in both.

There is no doubt about the boss. Mohammed Ben Youssef rules with supreme temporal and spiritual power as Sultan Mohammed V and Imam. His titles are hereditary. Imam has variable definitions; elsewhere it may mean a Moslem dignitary of any rank who is conducting a mosque service.

The Moroccan Sultan's ministers are viziers and the prime minister is grand vizier—a post held since 1912 by the venerable El Mokri, who is believed to be 108 years old.

Lord Astor Reports British Fifth Column

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Viscount Astor said yesterday that Britain has a fifth column "which has penetrated the highest ranks of the civil service, and apparently, scientists, even the church."

The 48-year-old son of Virginia-born Lady Astor, made the statement in the House of Lords. He spoke during a debate on the disappearance of Donald Maclean and Guy Burgess, British diplomats who fled behind the Iron Curtain after years of spying for the Soviet Union inside the Foreign Office.

Lord Astor observed that although Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Macmillan made "eloquent speeches (in the House of Commons debate) there were many questions unanswered which, if full confidence is to be restored, had better be answered once and for all."

He charged that in the early stages "of this sad affair" the government seemed more concerned to "hide the truth than to uncover it."

Gospel Boat Heads South

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23 (AP)—The gospel boat preacher heads south today for the Louisiana bayou country to minister to "a breed leery of strangers."

"That's where I'm needed," said the Rev. Maurice N. Rivard, 44-year-old preacher with an adventure story background.

His goal is to establish a chain of barge-mounted schools and chapels in the lonely bayou country where few, if any, preachers have worked full time among the French-speaking people.

"Because I am of French descent," he said, "it seemed natural to me to be called to work among other people of French descent."

A French Canadian, he lived in the Hudson Bay country as a boy, was with the Army engineers in the tropics, served for seven years as a free - lance commercial pilot in South America. All this was before he felt the call to religion 15 years ago and went to a Chicago mission where he met the girl he was to marry.

The Rivards and their two boys, Paul, 6, and Ernie, 8, began the journey in their 19-foot gospel boat from Chicago nearly a year ago and arrived here in January, all but broke and realizing their craft was not equal to the rugged Mississippi.

Now they have installed a larger 25-horsepower motor and searchlights.

Their project fund has been replenished by interested church groups and others. They have acquired a supply of books for the mobile schools and have arranged to acquire several small barges, which the Army engineers are disposing of in Louisiana.

The Rev. Mr. Rivard, ordained as a minister last year by the Non-Denominational Assn. of Fundamental Ministers and Churches, Inc., feels his background equips him for his mission in a country where life is hard and few strangers are accepted.

He visited the area last year and the Rivards' destination is a place called Point a la Hache, or Point of the Ax, deep in the bayou country.

The gospel boat is small, the means limited and the journey long, but the slightly-built preacher's faith and confidence are long, as big as his plans.

"Will we make it?" he said. "Of course we will."

Poles Celebrate

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP) — The centennial of the death of Adam Mickiewicz, one of Poland's leading romantic poets, is being celebrated by both anti-Communist and Communist Poles. Poet Archibald MacLeish, whose speech opened celebrations here, noted that Mickiewicz had been arrested in 1823 "for subversive activities aimed at the overthrow of Russian rule in Poland."

Souvenir Of 'Iron Horse' Presented To Fort Hill

Mayor Roy W. Eves yesterday presented an engine bell—memento of the passing of the Iron Horse on the B & O Railroad's Cumberland Division—to the football team of Fort Hill High School.

The bronze bell was presented at a pep rally held in the school gymnasium at noon and attended by some 1,600 students of the school.

The bell, he said, is about the last of its kind, and for years proudly held its place on one of the B & O's mallet locomotives.

These "iron horses," he said, easily pulled the heaviest trains up the steep grades of the Cumberland Division.

Most of the mallets have been scrapped as the B & O changed to diesel-electric locomotives.

Mayor Eves termed the bell a "symbol of power, of usefulness to mankind, obedience to operating rules, and to the laws of nature, reliability and courage."

He said he hoped the bell presented with the best wishes of the B & O, would bring the football team "good luck and good sportsmanship."

Two Men Jailed For Grand Jury Action

Two local men were committed to the Allegany County Jail yesterday in default of $2,000 bond each for action of the Grand Jury.

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick set bond at $2,000 each for Richard Spencer, 21, and Donald Cavey, 22, after they waived a preliminary hearing.

Spencer and Cavey were arrested early yesterday at Cavey's home, 123 Roberts Street.

Detective Donald Smith of the City Police Department said the pair was wanted for the breaking and entering of the home of Dorothy M. Glaze, 123 Roberts Street.

Following questioning by Detective Smith the boys signed statements admitting the breaking and entering. During the breaking and entering several items were stolen including a loaded .25 caliber automatic pistol, $63 in dimes, $8 in pennies ($4 of the white-lead type), several dollars in old Liberty head coins, a flashlight and several pieces of jewelry.

In their statement to the police the pair said they left Cumberland following the crime, traveled by bus to Baltimore and then to Florida.

They returned to Cumberland Tuesday and were apprehended early yesterday at the Roberts Street address.

Officers assisting in the arrest were E. Gordon Hite, Royce Clayton, Walter Dennison, Harry Iser, Carl E. Williams, Frank Carner and Roy I. Hawse.

Two Men Jailed For Grand Jury Action

Two local men were committed to the Allegany County Jail yesterday in default of $2,000 bond each for action of the Grand Jury.

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick set bond at $2,000 each for Richard Spencer, 21, and Donald Cavey, 22, after they waived a preliminary hearing.

Spencer and Cavey were arrested early yesterday at Cavey's home, 123 Roberts Street.

Detective Donald Smith of the City Police Department said the pair was wanted for the breaking and entering of the home of Dorothy M. Glaze, 123 Roberts Street.

Following questioning by Detective Smith the boys signed statements admitting the breaking and entering. During the breaking and entering several items were stolen including a loaded .25 caliber automatic pistol, $63 in dimes, $8 in pennies ($4 of the white-lead type), several dollars in old Liberty head coins, a flashlight and several pieces of jewelry.

In their statement to the police the pair said they left Cumberland following the crime, traveled by bus to Baltimore and then to Florida.

They returned to Cumberland Tuesday and were apprehended early yesterday at the Roberts Street address.

Officers assisting in the arrest were E. Gordon Hite, Royce Clayton, Walter Dennison, Harry Iser, Carl E. Williams, Frank Carner and Roy I. Hawse.

Fort Hill-Allegany Ready For 20th Turkey Day Battle

Campers Try For 1st Win In Ten Years

Both Schools Boast Win Streaks; Battle Will Start At 1:30

Allegany High School will make another attempt to shake a Turkey Day football jinx when it collides with its arch rival from Fort Hill High School today at 1:30 o'clock at the local stadium.

Nine years have elapsed since a Campobello team emerged the winner of a Thanksgiving Day game but followers of the Blue and White believe the law of averages will catch up with Fort Hill eventually and Allegany will bag this one.

While the Camper rooters envision an undefeated and untied season for Coach Roy Lester's warriors a warning comes from the other side of town not to sell the Sentinels short in the holiday classic in which they have emerged the victors seven times and played two ties over a nine-year span.

Both Have Win Streaks

Two winning streaks will clash head-on in today's encounter. Allegany is sailing along unbeaten and untied in seven games while Fort Hill, whipped in the season's opener, has reeled off eight consecutive triumphs.

Regardless of what the teams did in other games during the season, the holiday tilt is a "private" affair for the city rivals and anything could happen.

On the comparative score side of the picture we find that both Allegany and Fort Hill have beaten four of the same schools. Allegany dumped Beall, 32-6, and Fort Hill also won, 20-0. The Campers beat Hagerstown by a touchdown, 14-7. So did Fort Hill, 20-14. AHS topped Martinsburg by the margin of 13 points and the Sentinels posted a 21-point victory over the Bulldogs. Fort Hill routed LaSalle and Allegany belted the Explorers. The scores of the Hagerstown and Martinsburg games tend to show that the locals are pretty evenly matched, yet one never knows whether Allegany will cut loose like it did against Montgomery Blair, LaSalle and Elkins or whether Fort Hill will flash the power it possessed in the LaSalle, Handley and Front Royal contests.

8,000 May See Game

Many fans believe that Allegany has a classy team but they won't go out on a limb and make any predictions in view of the fact that several other "good" Camper elevens folded in the crucial battle that brings the season to a close.

A sellout of 5,800 reserved seats is reported and general admission ducats will be on sale at the stadium until after the game gets under way. It is estimated that the payees will number between 8,000 and 9,000.

William P. Hahn winds up his 11th season as Fort Hill mentor today. In 101 games his teams have won 84, lost 11 and played six ties. This is the fourth season for Coach Roy Lester and his teams at Campobello have won 23, lost nine and tied three.

Sentinels Lead Series

The Allegany-Fort Hill series started in 1936 and the Greenway Avenue boys lead in victories, 10 to 9 with three games ending in ties. These schools have met 19 times on Turkey Day and Allegany holds the edge 9-8 with two ties.

Thirty-one seniors appear on the rosters of the teams—16 at Fort Hill and 15 at Allegany.

The bands of both schools will be on hand to enliven the colorful spectacle with a gala halftime show.

Four officials from West Virginia will handle the contest, namely, Art Goldschein, Fred "Chick" Wahl, Newton Anderson and William Kafer.

Browns Couldn't Wait

CINCINNATI (AP)—Charlie Rabe 23-year-old southpaw who won 23 games for Columbia, S. C., last season, once was the property of the St. Louis Browns. He pitched for their Ada, Okla. team in the Class D Sooner State League in 1952 but because of wildness was released. He was 5-11 with them. Lawton, Okla., then in the Cincinnati chain, took Rabe on.

Navy Jumps Gun, Coaches Dunked In Severn River

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 23 (AP)—The Navy football squad jumped the gun today and threw its coaching staff into the Severn River.

Traditionally, the coaches are dunked the Thursday before the Army game, which is Saturday.

This year's group took no chance of their tutors escaping. Coach Eddie Erdelatz and his aides managed to sneak out and remain dry in 1953.

It was the only time he got away and also the only time he lost to Army in five games.

Last year, the coaches were thrown into the indoor swimming pool. They went overboard into the river next to the practice field today.

Doused along with Erdelatz were assistant coaches Dick Duden, Ernie Jorge, Wayne Hardin and Len Eshmont, and scout Bill Bilderback.

Taylor To Coach

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 23 (AP)—Hugh (Bones) Taylor, former Oklahoma City University and professional football end, today joined the coaching staff of Florida State University.

Taylor played pro ball with the Washington Redskins for several seasons, but switched this fall to Ottawa of the Canadian League.

Army Leads Grid Teams In Defense

Cadets Yield Only 139 Yards A Game

[By The Associated Press]

Unless Navy's football team puts on an unheard of display in Philadelphia Saturday, Army is virtually certain to wind up the season as the nation's No. 1 defensive team and as the first to go from one statistical extreme to the other in successive seasons.

Army was the major college total offense leader last year, the NCAA statistical bureau pointed out today, and is so far ahead on the total defense record this season that there's almost no chance for the Cadets to lose that title.

Holy Cross Second

Going into the last game, Army has allowed its opponents an average of only 139.5 yards a game by rushing and passing. That's one of the best defense records in years, almost 30 yards a game ahead of second-place Holy Cross and well below Georgia Tech's yield of 151.8 yards in 1948, the best major college mark in eight years.

Navy, with a 169.0 yard average is third behind Holy Cross, which limited Connecticut to 27 yards in last Saturday's snowstorm and still lost 6-0. But to put Army above the Crusaders' 168.8 figure, Navy would have to pile up more than 400 yards Saturday. And the only way the Midshipmen could gain the defensive lead would be to get a lot of yards themselves and at the same time hold the Cadets to almost nothing.

Maryland Is Close

Army's position as rushing defense leader is somewhat less secure. The Cadet linemen have limited their opposition to an average of 72.3 yards per game. But Maryland, its regular season finished, has a 75.9 figure. That means Army must hold the Midshipmen to 105 rushing yards to take that title and although Navy is the top passing team this season, no opponent has been able to contain its runners to that extent.

With the season almost over, the other major college defensive leaders are fairly safe.

Panthers Are Second In Lambert Voting

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Navy's once-beaten team continued to dominate the voting in the weekly balloting for the Lambert Trophy, symbol of Eastern football supremacy.

On the cumulative point total basis, the Middies today had 37.1 out of a maximum of 38 points. Pittsburgh was second with 18.1 followed by Syracuse, 11.3, Army 11.2, Yale 8.3, Penn State 6.9, Holy Cross 6.4, Boston College 5.9, Princeton 4.6, Trinity 1.3 and Delaware 1.0.

Coaches, writers and sportscasters participate in the poll.

Wilson Wins Again • • • Four In "A" Meets
Hahn Batting .875 • • • Bowmen Bag Three

By C. V. BURNS

"PETE" WILSON, promising young Flintstone middleweight, notched his eighth victory in a year on Tuesday night when he earned the nod over Sam Sellers, Pittsburgh negro, in a slambang battle that highlighted an amateur fistic show at Charleroi, Pa.

Howard "Red" Bush's protege was outweighed 13 pounds by Sellers, who came in as a last minute substitute when the boxer originially slated to fight Wilson was unable to go on.

Sellers tipped the beam at 168 and Wilson weighed 155.

Wilson has engaged in 11 bouts, all away from home since last November, and has lost only three decisions.

JOHN R. SHELTON, Keyser High School basketball mentor, reports that Keyser will have to battle it out with three other schools for Class A sectional honors in 1955-56 instead of with two schools as was the case last year.

Charles Town High School, which now has more than 115 enrollment in the three upper grade, gets into the picture during the coming season. Romney made its debut in Class "A" last winter.

Keyser won the sectional last season by beating Romney, 57-50 and Martinsburg, 51-40, also copped regional honors by knocking off Fairmont West in an overtime battle, 58-55 and Morgantown 62-61.

In the state tourney at Huntington, the Golden Tornado eliminated Grafton, 47-36, and lost out in the semi-finals to Mullens, 80-59.

Franklin High of Pendelton County makes its debut in the Class A sectionals during the coming season and will participate in the same tourney with Elkins, Parsons and Tygarts Valley of Mill Creek.

After regional and area games are completed only four schools will go to the state championship event.

BILL HAHN, Fort Hill's football boss, has had more Thanksgiving Day winners than any of the 12 coaches who have led teams into the 27 contests played here.

The "Pride of Hambleton" tutored seven winners, had one loser and two of his teams played tie games, giving him the nice batting average of .875.

Hahn is tied with Herman Ball, former Allegany mentor, in the matter of consecutive winners, each having four. Ball's teams scored in 1936, 1937, 1938 and 1939 while Hahn's elevens made the sweep in 1949, 1950, 1951 and 1952.

Here are the coaches' records:

JOSEPH A. MINKE, regional game warden, reports that three deer were killed in Allegany county by bow and arrow hunters during the recent open season.

Minke received word from Stanley Alexander, district game warden at Hagerstown, that Richard Wilson, of Liberty street, Hagerstown, killed an eight-point buck on Town Hill Mountain November 11. It was the second 8-point buck bagged by an archer this year. The other deer slain was a doe.

Wilson had his deer checked at Clearspring instead of Shipway's Inn in Allegany county.

Each of the bucks killed this year weighed 140 pounds with the intestines drawn or hog dressed, according to reports from the checkers.

Bowmen have averaged three kills a season during the three years of special seasons in Allegany county.

Allegany High School will make another attempt to shake a Turkey Day football jinx when it collides with its arch rival from Fort Hill High School today at 1:30 o'clock at the local stadium.

Nine years have elapsed since a Campobello team emerged the winner of a Thanksgiving Day game but followers of the Blue and White believe the law of averages will catch up with Fort Hill eventually and Allegany will bag this one.

While the Camper rooters envision an undefeated and untied season for Coach Roy Lester's warriors a warning comes from the other side of town not to sell the Sentinels short in the holiday classic in which they have emerged the victors seven times and played two ties over a nine-year span.

Both Have Win Streaks

Two winning streaks will clash head-on in today's encounter. Allegany is sailing along unbeaten and untied in seven games while Fort Hill, whipped in the season's opener, has reeled off eight consecutive triumphs.

Regardless of what the teams did in other games during the season, the holiday tilt is a "private" affair for the city rivals and anything could happen.

On the comparative score side of the picture we find that both Allegany and Fort Hill have beaten four of the same schools. Allegany dumped Beall, 32-6, and Fort Hill also won, 20-0. The Campers beat Hagerstown by a touchdown, 14-7. So did Fort Hill, 20-14. AHS topped Martinsburg by the margin of 13 points and the Sentinels posted a 21-point victory over the Bulldogs. Fort Hill routed LaSalle and Allegany belted the Explorers. The scores of the Hagerstown and Martinsburg games tend to show that the locals are pretty evenly matched, yet one never knows whether Allegany will cut loose like it did against Montgomery Blair, LaSalle and Elkins or whether Fort Hill will flash the power it possessed in the LaSalle, Handley and Front Royal contests.

8,000 May See Game

Many fans believe that Allegany has a classy team but they won't go out on a limb and make any predictions in view of the fact that several other "good" Camper elevens folded in the crucial battle that brings the season to a close.

A sellout of 5,800 reserved seats is reported and general admission ducats will be on sale at the stadium until after the game gets under way. It is estimated that the payees will number between 8,000 and 9,000.

William P. Hahn winds up his 11th season as Fort Hill mentor today. In 101 games his teams have won 84, lost 11 and played six ties. This is the fourth season for Coach Roy Lester and his teams at Campobello have won 23, lost nine and tied three.

Sentinels Lead Series

The Allegany-Fort Hill series started in 1936 and the Greenway Avenue boys lead in victories, 10 to 9 with three games ending in ties. These schools have met 19 times on Turkey Day and Allegany holds the edge 9-8 with two ties.

Thirty-one seniors appear on the rosters of the teams—16 at Fort Hill and 15 at Allegany.

The bands of both schools will be on hand to enliven the colorful spectacle with a gala halftime show.

Four officials from West Virginia will handle the contest, namely, Art Goldschein, Fred "Chick" Weihl, Newton Anderson and William Kafer.

Browns Couldn't Wait

CINCINNATI (AP)—Charlie Rabe 23-year-old southpaw who won 23 games for Columbia, S. C., last season, once was the property of the St. Louis Browns. He pitched for their Ada, Okla. team in the Class D Sooner State League in 1952 but because of wildness was released. He was 5-11 with them. Lawton, Okla., then in the Cincinnati chain, took Rabe on.

Navy Jumps Gun, Coaches Dunked In Severn River

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 23 (AP)—The Navy football squad jumped the gun today and threw its coaching staff into the Severn River.

Traditionally, the coaches are dunked the Thursday before the Army game, which is Saturday.

This year's group took no chance of their tutors escaping. Coach Eddie Erdelatz and his aides managed to sneak out and remain dry in 1953.

It was the only time he got away and also the only time he lost to Army in five games.

Last year, the coaches were thrown into the indoor swimming pool. They went overboard into the river next to the practice field today.

Doused along with Erdelatz were assistant coaches Dick Duden, Ernie Jorge, Wayne Hardin and Len Eshmont, and scout Bill Bilderback.

Taylor To Coach

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 23 (AP)—Hugh (Bones) Taylor, former Oklahoma City University and professional football end, today joined the coaching staff of Florida State University.

Taylor played pro ball with the Washington Redskins for several seasons, but switched this fall to Ottawa of the Canadian League.

Army Leads Grid Teams In Defense

Cadets Yield Only 139 Yards A Game

[By The Associated Press]

Unless Navy's football team puts on an unheard of display in Philadelphia Saturday, Army is virtually certain to wind up the season as the nation's No. 1 defensive team and as the first to go from one statistical extreme to the other in successive seasons.

Army was the major college total offense leader last year, the NCAA statistical bureau pointed out today, and is so far ahead on the total defense record this season that there's almost no chance for the Cadets to lose that title.

Holy Cross Second

Going into the last game, Army has allowed its opponents an average of only 139.5 yards a game by rushing and passing. That's one of the best defense records in years, almost 30 yards a game ahead of second-place Holy Cross and well below Georgia Tech's yield of 151.8 yards in 1948, the best major college mark in eight years.

Navy, with a 169.0 yard average is third behind Holy Cross, which limited Connecticut to 27 yards in last Saturday's snowstorm and still lost 6-0. But to put Army above the Crusaders' 168.8 figure, Navy would have to pile up more than 400 yards Saturday. And the only way the Midshipmen could gain the defensive lead would be to get a lot of yards themselves and at the same time hold the Cadets to almost nothing.

Maryland Is Close

Army's position as rushing defense leader is somewhat less secure. The Cadet linemen have limited their opposition to an average of 72.3 yards per game. But Maryland, its regular season finished, has a 75.9 figure. That means Army must hold the Midshipmen to 105 rushing yards to take that title and although Navy is the top passing team this season, no opponent has been able to contain its runners to that extent.

With the season almost over, the other major college defensive leaders are fairly safe.

Panthers Are Second In Lambert Voting

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Navy's once-beaten team continued to dominate the voting in the weekly balloting for the Lambert Trophy, symbol of Eastern football supremacy.

On the cumulative point total basis, the Middies today had 37.1 out of a maximum of 38 points. Pittsburgh was second with 18.1 followed by Syracuse, 11.3, Army 11.2, Yale 8.3, Penn State 6.9, Holy Cross 6.4, Boston College 5.9, Princeton 4.6, Trinity 1.3 and Delaware 1.0.

Coaches, writers and sportscasters participate in the poll.

Wilson Wins Again • • • Four In "A" Meets

By C. V. BURNS

"PETE" WILSON, promising young Flintstone middleweight, notched his eighth victory in a year on Tuesday night when he earned the nod over Sam Sellers, Pittsburgh negro, in a slambang battle that highlighted an amateur frstic show at Charleroi, Pa.

Howard "Red" Bush's protege was outweighed 13 pounds by Sellers, who came in as a last minute substitute when the boxer originially slated to fight Wilson was unable to go on.

Sellers tipped the beam at 168 and Wilson weighed 155.

Wilson has engaged in 11 bouts, all away from home since last November, and has lost only three decisions.

JOHN R. SHELTON, Keyser High School basketball mentor, reports that Keyser will have to battle it out with three other schools for Class A sectional honors in 1955-56 instead of with two schools as was the case last year.

Charles Town High School, which now has more than 115 enrollment in the three upper grade, gets into the picture during the coming season. Romney made its debut in Class "A" last winter.

Keyser won the sectional last season by beating Romney, 57-50 and Martinsburg, 51-40, also copped regional honors by knocking off Fairmont West in an overtime battle, 58-55 and Morgantown 62-61.

In the state tourney at Huntington, the Golden Tornado eliminated Grafton, 47-36, and lost out in the semi-finals to Mullens, 80-59.

Major Colleges Figure In Traditional Games Today

Cornell Tests Penn, Colgate Faces Brown

Texas Will Battle Aggies; Virginia Tech Meets V.M.I.

[By The Associated Press]

Although college football is shedding traditional ties, a half dozen or so major games are on the schedule today just because those teams always play on Thanksgiving Day.

One game—Texas A. and M. vs. Texas—is expected to settle the usual mad scramble for the Southwest Conference championship and two others offer teams opportunities to tie for their conference titles.

The Texas Aggies, ranked eighth in the nation in this week's Associated Press poll, are undefeated, though tied once, in conference play and have lost only to powerful UCLA. Still they have to win this one to keep the title safe from the threat of bowl-bound Texas Christian, which winds up its regular season against Southern Methodist Saturday. TCU has lost only once in five conference games.

TCU Gets Bowl Game

Even if they win, the Aggies can't play in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 2, because they're on probation for recruiting violations. TCU already has been designated as the host team.

Wyoming's Cowboys and Wichita's Wheatshockers can tie for the titles in the Skyline and Missouri Valley conferences if they win today over Denver and Tulsa, Respectively.

Miami of Ohio, with the Mid-American Conference title secured, tries to complete its first perfect season in more than 30 years against a Cincinnati team that hasn't shown much defense this season.

Penn Plays Cornell

No titles are at stake in the traditional Thanksgiving games in the East and South, but they still manage to attract a lot of fans. At Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and Cornell clash for the 62nd time since 1893 and probably for the last time on the holiday. When the Ivy League begins its formal round robin competition next year they'll switch to Saturday. Some 25,000 spectators are expected for this game although Penn hasn't won a game in more than two years.

Penn's improving sophomores could end that losing streak and Richmond is favored to end another streak of losses when it plays William and Mary. Richmond hasn't beaten the Indians since 1938, but it has a somewhat superior record this season.

Colgate Is Favored

In other Thanksgiving traditionals, Colgate, one of the East's better independent teams, is favored over Brown in a morning game and Virginia Tech is given the edge over Virginia Military.

The heavier part of this week's college program is listed for Saturday with the biggest of all traditional games, Army vs. Navy, and such others as Notre Dame-southern California, Vanderbilt-Tennessee, Georgia Tech-Georgia, Mississippi-Mississippi State and Oklahoma-Oklahoma A. and M.

Laurel Objects To Same Racing Dates As 1955

Charge Schedule Strangled Track

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23 (AP)—Laurel Race Track entered strong objections today to a proposal it have the same racing dates next year as it did in 1955.

"The 1955 scheduled strangled Laurel," declared Eugene Fineblatt, an attorney representing the track.

The protest upset a date-fixing conference of the Maryland Racing Commission.

D. Eldred Rinehart, chairman of the commission, earlier had expressed a hope the 1955 schedule pattern could be extended to 1956.

Three tracks — Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie—divide 100 racing days each year under the present law. It is Bowie's turn to have the extra, 34th day in 1956.

Laurel proposed it be permitted to open the racing season with a meeting on March 10 and another in the Fall starting on Oct. 26.

Pimlico asked for two meetings, May 10 to 26 and Nov. 12 to Dec. 1.

Bowie asked for its 34 days in one chunk in the Spring, starting March 9 or 14. It also offered to accept a two-meeting basis if it gets the opening dates in March and the closing dates in December.

The commission adjourned to study the various proposals. Rinehart said he hoped to have a decision by Dec. 5.

Fineblatt complained wagering was off at Laurel this year by two tenths of one per cent and Rinehart conceded Laurel had been "penalized a little bit" by the schedule.

Rinehart pointed out, however, that betting figures for all thre tracks together were up.

Fineblatt said with all the improvements Laurel had made and all its promotional work "we should be way ahead of 1954 and not just holding our own."

Outfielder Arnie Hallgren, who hit .348 for Boise in the Pioneer League, will get a chance with the Milwaukee Braves in spring training.

Major Colleges Figure In Traditional Games Today

Texas Will Battle Aggies; Virginia Tech Meets V.M.I.

[By The Associated Press]

Although college football is shedding traditional ties, a half dozen or so major games are on the schedule today just because those teams always play on Thanksgiving Day.

One game—Texas A. and M. vs. Texas—is expected to settle the usual mad scramble for the Southwest Conference championship and two others offer teams opportunities to tie for their conference titles.

The Texas Aggies, ranked eighth in the nation in this week's Associated Press poll, are undefeated, though tied once, in conference play and have lost only to powerful UCLA. Still they have to win this one to keep the title safe from the threat of bowl-bound Texas Christian, which winds up its regular season against Southern Methodist Saturday. TCU has lost only once in five conference games.

TCU Gets Bowl Game

Even if they win, the Aggies can't play in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 2, because they're on probation for recruiting violations. TCU already has been designated as the host team.

Wyoming's Cowboys and Wichita's Wheatshockers can tie for the titles in the Skyline and Missouri Valley conferences if they win today over Denver and Tulsa, Respectively.

Miami of Ohio, with the Mid-American Conference title secured, tries to complete its first perfect season in more than 30 years against a Cincinnati team that hasn't shown much defense this season.

Penn Plays Cornell

No titles are at stake in the traditional Thanksgiving games in the East and South, but they still manage to attract a lot of fans. At Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and Cornell clash for the 62nd time since 1893 and probably for the last time on the holiday. When the Ivy League begins its formal round robin competition next year they'll switch to Saturday. Some 25,000 spectators are expected for this game although Penn hasn't won a game in more than two years.

Penn's improving sophomores could end that losing streak and Richmond is favored to end another streak of losses when it plays William and Mary. Richmond hasn't beaten the Indians since 1938, but it has a somewhat superior record this season.

Colgate Is Favored

In other Thanksgiving traditionals, Colgate, one of the East's better independent teams, is favored over Brown in a morning game and Virginia Tech is given the edge over Virginia Military.

The heavier part of this week's college program is listed for Saturday with the biggest of all traditional games, Army vs. Navy, and such others as Notre Dame-southern California, Vanderbilt-Tennessee, Georgia Tech-Georgia, Mississippi-Mississippi State and Oklahoma-Oklahoma A. and M.

Laurel Objects To Same Racing Dates As 1955

Charge Schedule Strangled Track

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23 (AP)—Laurel Race Track entered strong objections today to a proposal it have the same racing dates next year as it did in 1955.

"The 1955 scheduled strangled Laurel," declared Eugene Fineblatt, an attorney representing the track.

The protest upset a date-fixing conference of the Maryland Racing Commission.

D. Eldred Rinehart, chairman of the commission, earlier had expressed a hope the 1955 schedule pattern could be extended to 1956.

Three tracks — Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie—divide 100 racing days each year under the present law. It is Bowie's turn to have the extra, 34th day in 1956.

Laurel proposed it be permitted to open the racing season with a meeting on March 10 and another in the Fall starting on Oct. 26.

Pimlico asked for two meetings, May 10 to 26 and Nov. 12 to Dec. 1.

Bowie asked for its 34 days in one chunk in the Spring, starting March 9 or 14. It also offered to accept a two-meeting basis if it gets the opening dates in March and the closing dates in December.

The commission adjourned to study the various proposals. Rinehart said he hoped to have a decision by Dec. 5.

Fineblatt complained wagering was off at Laurel this year by two tenths of one per cent and Rinehart conceded Laurel had been "penalized a little bit" by the schedule.

Rinehart pointed out, however, that betting figures for all thre tracks together were up.

Fineblatt said with all the improvements Laurel had made and all its promotional work "we should be way ahead of 1954 and not just holding our own."

Outfielder Arnie Hallgren, who hit .348 for Boise in the Pioneer League, will get a chance with the Milwaukee Braves in spring training.

Court Paroles Four Offenders

Four Cumberland boys who admitted rifling automobiles in the city over a period of several months, were tried yesterday in Juvenile Court as delinquent minors.

Magistrate Morris Baron paroled the boys into the custody of their parents following the hearing, but severely reprimanded the parents for allowing the boys, all 12 and 13 years old, to roam the streets at all hours.

Baron said following the hearing that the oldest boy, apparently the ringleader of the four, had previously been committed to Maryland Training School for Boys. The magistrate said he would try to find an institution in which to place the youth to keep him out of trouble.

The four were arrested Sunday, November 13, by Western Maryland Railway Company police when they were caught rifling automobiles on Canal Street on railroad property. After being questioned in Police Headquarters here, they acknowledged ransacking cars in the Cumberland area for some months.

Included in the loot found in their possession were several flashlights, gloves, cigarets, candy, a basketball and other items.

Electricians To Meet

Local 307, Electrical Workers Union (AFL), will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the AFL Labor Temple.

No Racing Today

There is no racing at Charles Town (W. Va.) on Thanksgiving Day. The programs will resume on Friday.

Fort Hill Gives Food To Needy

Members of the Tri Hi-Y Clubs at Fort Hill High School, assisted by other students of the school, yesterday collected over 800 cans of food which was given to the Associated Charities for distribution to needy families for Thanksgiving.

Miss Sharon Day, president of Alpha Tri Hi Y was in charge of the event and among her assistants were Marilyn Hitchcock, Judy Kelly, Gail Garlitz, Kay Trezise, Barbara Deetz, Joan Garlitz, with Miss Lillian Myers as faculty advisor.

To Honor Parker

DURHAM, N. C.—Clarence M. (Ace) Parker, generally recognized as Duke University's greatest gridiron player of all time, will be officially ushered into football's National Hall of Fame in brief ceremonies at the Duke-North Carolina game here Saturday, December 3.

Plans for the ceremony were announced by Duke Athletic Director Eddie Cameron who was backfield coach of the Blue Devils when Parker wrote gridiron records which still stand at the institution.

Tri-Towns Church Basketball League Will Open Dec. 10

WESTERNPORT — The Tri-Towns Church Basketball League will open its 1955-56 schedule Saturday December 10.

Nine teams have enrolled at the league as follows: Bloomington Methodist, Trinity Methodist, Presbyterian of Piedmont; Church of the Brethren, St. Peter's Catholic, First Baptist, Christ Memorial Baptist, Mt. Calvary Lutheran and Evangelical United Brethren of Westernport.

Two games will be played at the Piedmont High School and Bruce High School each Saturday and the ninth team will play a United Church team of Dawson and McCoole but it will not be a league team.

John E. Grindle presided at the recent meeting of the circuit held at the Bruce High School where it was also decided that William Miers, coach of Piedmont High School, and Leonard Ritchie, coach of the Bruce High School will appoint the referees for the league.

This coming Saturday the teams will practice at the Bruce gym from 12 noon to 5 p. m. and the following Saturday, December 3, will practice at Piedmont gym beginning at 9 a. m.

Observers Wrong

DETROIT — Football observers who saw Ohio State's All-American star Harold "Hopalong" Casady and Michigan's star end Ron Kramer in the Detroit Lions dressing room after a game thought the Lions were "recruiting" the highly publicized stars.

In reality, they stopped in to visit Detroit's Sonny Gandee, a former Buckeye star.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Memorable Hour And A Half

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" is one of a series of successful stage plays that have been stripped down to their bare bones. In essence, it is a courtroom rehash of something that took place long before the curtain rises. It is a question-and-answer session in which almost no real action takes place until close to the end, in which there is almost no emotion except implicit emotion.

In other words, it violates most of what we used to consider the dramatic rules, and yet it held Broadway audiences in a state of almost trance-like absorption, and I rather think it held in the same way the TV audience which was lucky enough to witness it on Ford Star Jubilee the other night.

For all its bareboned simplicity, there is a whale of a lot in this play. In the first place, it's a pretty good mystery story. Just what did happen on the destroyer-minesweeper Caine in the middle of a typhoon on the morning of December 18, 1944, in the Philippine Sea? Who were the villains? Who were the heroes?

In place of the ordinary courtroom puzzles—"Just how far from the door were you, when you heard the shots?"—there were the infinitely more complex and fascinating puzzles of man's behavior under stress. Basic in the play as in the book is that perennial feud between the civilian, temporary, war-time Navy men and the regulars. And, in addition to all this, even at second hand, it is a rousing sea story—and sea stories have held their own special fascination for land-lubbers since the days of Ulyssess.

In compressing all this into a courtroom drama, in reducing a tempestuous incident at sea to dry courtroom language, in unfolding character through the underbrush of testimony, Herman Wouk was making his point the hard way. Yet, just as a guess, I'd say the tension was twice as great as if the actual incident in that wheelhouse of the Caine on that fateful day had been dramatized.

The big moment in the play comes when Captain Queeg (a word that seems to have passed into the language) came unglued on the stand, revealing almost heartbreakingly how unfit he was to face any situation, much less typhoons. Yet, as playwriting goes, a far more difficult task—and done with consummate skill—was to unfold yards of exposition so compellingly that it became intensely dramatic. After that careful and skillful preparation, the actual breakup must almost have written itself.

Great credit for propelling Wouk into this work must go to Charles Laughton who persuaded him to do it and more or less sat at his elbow throughout the writing. My admiration for the work is tempered only by its ending. I think the scene where Lt. Greenwald throws a glass of champagne into the face of the real villain of the piece, Lt. Keefer, was pure Clyde Fitch. Otherwise, Mr. Wouk held himself admirably in restraint.

The television production, in acting and direction and camera work, was superb. With a terribly static play on his hands, director Franklin Schaffner kept his cameras glued on the precise spot where the focal interest lay—whether it was Queeg's hands or the face of the presiding officer. As Queeg, the man who is transformed from a self-assured officer into a whining shattered paranoic, Lloyd Nolan was extravagantly praised on Broadway and all I can say after his TV appearance on this production is that he deserved all of it.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

JUST DESSERTS

ONLY ONE declarer in a duplicate game applied the proper timing to the play of the following hand, and so it was no more than just that he scored "top-on-the-board."

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ 6 4 ♥ Q J 5 3 2 ♦ 5 2 ♣ A Q 5 4
♠ 9 7 3 2 ♥ 8 ♦ 10 9 8 ♣ K 10 9 7 2	N W E S	♠ K Q 5 ♥ 10 9 7 6 4 ♦ 6 4 3 ♣ 6 3
	♠ A J 10 8 ♥ A K ♦ A K Q J 7 ♣ J 8

Almost every South in the field ended up in a six-notrump contract.

Since clubs had been bid by North at some point of the auction, no West opened that suit, most of them preferring to make the neutral diamond lead. At almost every table the declarer, after testing the diamond suit to see that it would break, cashed the ace and king of hearts and then ran the rest of the diamonds, discarding one spade, one club, and one heart from dummy. Under this method of play, these discards became vital, because these declarers could not afford to reduce dummy to the blank A-Q of clubs—if they did and the finesse lost, they would be short a trick, whereas by keeping three clubs in dummy South could lead the club jack and in that way assure himself of two club tricks. All these declarers ended up by making exactly six-odd.

One South was a little more imaginative. Winning the diamond lead, he cashed the ace and king of hearts—saw the break of that suit, and immediately led the jack of clubs. West covered—properly, of course—and dummy's ace won. South next cashed the queen and jack of hearts, discarding two spades, and then ran the rest of his diamonds, discarding two clubs and a spade from the table.

East was safe up to this point, but when South finally led the eight of clubs to the queen, East was not so safe. Forced to keep the high heart against dummy's five-spot, East had to reduce to one spade, and South took the twelfth and thirteenth tricks with the ace and jack of spades.

It is obviously true that this declarer was lucky to find the cards right for a squeeze, but at least he played for that chance, whereas the others settled for 12 tricks.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

O A P H S E P M Y H P V C E K M M V Y U
O P A C E H Y Q Q K O Q V P V M M C A Y J H M —
H K Q C P T.

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Memorable Hour And A Half

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" is one of a series of successful stage plays that have been stripped down to their bare bones. In essence, it is a courtroom rehash of something that took place long before the curtain rises. It is a question-and-answer session in which almost no real action takes place until close to the end, in which there is almost no emotion except implicit emotion.

In other words, it violates most of what we used to consider the dramatic rules, and yet it held Broadway audiences in a state of almost trance-like absorption, and I rather think it held in the same way the TV audience which was lucky enough to witness it on Ford Star Jubilee the other night.

For all its bareboned simplicity, there is a whale of a lot in this play. In the first place, it's a pretty good mystery story. Just what did happen on the destroyer-minesweeper Caine in the middle of a typhoon on the morning of December 18, 1944, in the Philippine Sea? Who were the villains? Who were the heroes?

In place of the ordinary courtroom puzzles—"Just how far from the door were you, when you heard the shots?"—there were the infinitely more complex and fascinating puzzles of man's behavior under stress. Basic in the play as in the book is that perennial feud between the civilian, temporary, war-time Navy men and the regulars. And, in addition to all this, even at second hand, it is a rousing sea story—and sea stories have held their own special fascination for land-lubbers since the days of Ulyssess.

In compressing all this into a courtroom drama, in reducing a tempestuous incident at sea to dry courtroom language, in unfolding character through the underbrush of testimony, Herman Wouk was making his point the hard way. Yet, just as a guess, I'd say the tension was twice as great as if the actual incident in that wheelhouse of the Caine on that fateful day had been dramatized.

The big moment in the play comes when Captain Queeg (a word that seems to have passed into the language) came unglued on the stand, revealing almost heartbreakingly how unfit he was to face any situation, much less typhoons. Yet, as playwriting goes, a far more difficult task—and done with consummate skill—was to unfold yards of exposition so compellingly that it became intensely dramatic. After that careful and skillful preparation, the actual breakup must almost have written itself.

Great credit for propelling Wouk into this work must go to Charles Laughton who persuaded him to do it and more or less sat at his elbow throughout the writing. My admiration for the work is tempered only by its ending. I think the scene where Lt. Greenwald throws a glass of champagne into the face of the real villain of the piece, Lt. Keefer, was pure Clyde Fitch. Otherwise, Mr. Wouk held himself admirably in restraint.

The television production, in acting and direction and camera work, was superb. With a terribly static play on his hands, director Franklin Schaffner kept his cameras glued on the precise spot where the focal interest lay—whether it was Queeg's hands or the face of the presiding officer. As Queeg, the man who is transformed from a self-assured officer into a whining shattered paranoic, Lloyd Nolan was extravagantly praised on Broadway and all I can say after his TV appearance on this production is that he deserved all of it.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

JUST DESSERTS

ONLY ONE declarer in a duplicate game applied the proper timing to the play of the following hand, and so it was no more than just that he scored "top-on-the-board."

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ 6 4 ♥ Q J 5 3 2 ♦ 5 2 ♣ A Q 5 4
♠ 9 7 3 2 ♥ 8 ♦ 10 9 8 ♣ K 10 9 7 2	N W E S	♠ K Q 5 ♥ 10 9 7 6 4 ♦ 6 4 3 ♣ 6 3
	♠ A J 10 8 ♥ A K ♦ A K Q J 7 ♣ J 8

Almost every South in the field ended up in a six-notrump contract.

Since clubs had been bid by North at some point of the auction, no West opened that suit, most of them preferring to make the neutral diamond lead. At almost every table the declarer, after testing the diamond suit to see that it would break, cashed the ace and king of hearts and then ran the rest of the diamonds, discarding one spade, one club, and one heart from dummy. Under this method of play, these discards became vital, because these declarers could not afford to reduce dummy to the blank A-Q of clubs—if they did and the finesse lost, they would be short a trick, whereas by keeping three clubs in dummy South could lead the club jack and in that way assure himself of two club tricks. All these declarers ended up by making exactly six-odd.

One South was a little more imaginative. Winning the diamond lead, he cashed the ace and king of hearts—saw the break of that suit, and immediately led the jack of clubs. West covered—properly, of course—and dummy's ace won. South next cashed the queen and jack of hearts, discarding two spades, and then ran the rest of his diamonds, discarding two clubs and a spade from the table.

East was safe up to this point, but when South finally led the eight of clubs to the queen, East was not so safe. Forced to keep the high heart against dummy's five-spot, East had to reduce to one spade, and South took the twelfth and thirteenth tricks with the ace and jack of spades.

It is obviously true that this declarer was lucky to find the cards right for a squeeze, but at least he played for that chance, whereas the others settled for 12 tricks.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Annie Hobel, who entered eternal rest three years ago today, November 24, 1952.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all
A bitter grief a shock severe
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best
O God grant you eternal rest.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Annie Hobel, who entered eternal rest three years ago today, November 24, 1952.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all
A bitter grief a shock severe
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best
O God grant you eternal rest.

Thanksgiving Services Set By Churches

Many Worshippers Will Pray For Peace

Thousands of worshippers will observe Thanksgiving today by attending church services in Cumberland and area, and most will probably offer up their prayer for peace throughout the nation and world.

Special services have been planned by local and area churches.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Washington Street and Prospect Square will hold a service at 11 a. m. with the subject of the lesson-sermon: "Thanksgiving." Golden Text: Psalms 97:12. "Rejoice in the Lord, ye righteous; and give thanks to the remembrance of his holiness."

Salvation Army

Cumberland's Salvation Army corps will unite for two services today, according to Capt. Daniel Biggs, commander of the Citadel.

The November Soldiers Gathering will be held at a covered dish dinner Thursday at 6:15 p.m. at the Citadel, attended by members of the Citadel and the South Cumberland corps.

The corps will unite at 7:45 p.m. for a Thanksgiving service in the auditorium.

Capt. Earnest Wixson, commander of the Salvation Army in Hagerstown, will deliver the Thanksgiving address and will sing several selections.

Assisting in the service will be Lt. Thomas Curtis, South Cumberland commander, and Capt. Biggs.

The Salvation Army will take applications for surplus foods on November 30 and December 1 and 2, Capt. Biggs said.

Special Services

A special Thanksgiving service will be conducted today at 9:30 a. m. at First Brethren Church, according to Rev. L. O. McCartney Smith, pastor.

Pre-communion services will be held at 7:30 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday, and a communion service at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, the pastor stated.

At the Barton Methodist Church, a union Thanksgiving service will be held by the Presbyterian and Methodist parishioners at 10 o'clock this morning.

The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Ellwood Carey with Rev. Byron Keesecker, pastor, in charge of the service. The public is invited to attend.

Thanksgiving day will be observed at Keyser with a Union service, with all Protestant church congregations meeting at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church on South Mineral Street.

Rev. S. A. F. Wagner, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, will deliver the Thanksgiving sermon. Other local pastors will take part in the program.

Traffic Lights Are Wrong Type

Traffic controls for the new Cumberland--Ridgeley Bridge face another delay.

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan said the wrong type of lights were shipped.

He said the lights delivered are on three-foot brackets, instead of 12-foot, and cannot be spaced to control two lanes of traffic.

He said he has wired the company to send a representative as soon as possible so the correct equipment can be secured.

The work has been delayed for several weeks due to lack of cable for the installation, and the trouble with the traffic lights was discovered when workers strung the cable and began to install the equipment.

Shooting Victim Is 'Satisfactory'

Thomas Aronhalt, 32, who resides along Route 50 at the foot of Allegheny Front in Mineral County, W. Va., is reported in "satisfactory" condition in Potomac Valley Hospital, where he was admitted for treatment of a gunshot wound in the groin.

The victim injury was allegedly inflicted by his father-in-law, Norman Via.

Aronhalt, however, told Trooper Charles Oliver he had no idea who shot him. Via, on the other hand, informed the state trooper he had wounded his son-in-law, but refused to discuss the incident any further.

Trooper Oliver said Aronhalt was shot in the groin at the Via residence, near Hartmansville at the top of Allegheny Front, where his wife and children reportedly were at the time. Aronhalt, it was reported, drove himself to the hospital after being wounded.

Mr. and Mrs. Converse Owen Smith, Falmouth Foreside, Me., announce the birth of a son Tuesday. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Smith, 834 Windsor Road.

Western Maryland Industry Provides Thanksgiving Turkeys

Charles Harvey of Shaft, one of many turkey producers in a relatively new Western Maryland industry, prepares to start a gobbler on his way to somebody's Thanksgiving dinner table as others wander about unmindful of what's in store for them.

Tom Turkey, feathers ruffled, casts a baleful glare at the photographer as he poses for a formal portrait at the Harvey farm.

Mrs. Hannah Hager and John Kerr clean turkeys at the Harvey farm as the birds are prepared for shipping to markets in the area.

Mrs. Harvey makes a final inspection of a finished turkey before he is sent off for his dinner date with some cranberries.

Mrs. Robert L. Smith, 306 Pulaski Street, removes the finished product from the oven for the traditional Thanksgiving feast.

Long A Calendar 'Nomad,' Thanksgiving Date Has Finally Settled Down To Stay

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

They called it the "New Deal" Thanksgiving.

Twenty-three of the states bucked in 1939 when President Franklin Delano Roosevelt proclaimed Thanksgiving on the third instead of the fourth Thursday in November.

Two states, Texas and Colorado, decided to hold their own Thanksgiving on the day which had been traditional since 1863, when President Lincoln established the first annual national observance.

The switch in date was called by FDR at the request of businessmen who wanted a longer Christmas shopping season. He stuck to the third Thursday for two more years.

By that time, the hot issue had been settled for all time by Congress.

On December 26, 1941, President Roosevelt signed House Joint Resolution 41, which said:

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the fourth Thursday in November of each year after the year 1941 be known as Thanksgiving Day, and it is hereby made a legal public holiday to all intents and purposes."

The first legal national observance of Thanksgiving in 1942 came 320 years after the Pilgrims held the first Thanksgiving in America.

All previous Thanksgivings had been called at the request of Presidents and had no legal status.

In proclaiming the "New Deal" Thanksgiving, FDR undoubtedly knew what most Americans had forgotten that Thanksgiving had been batted all around the calendar and had, in fact, been held on eight of the 12 months during its long and controversial history.

President George Washington proclaimed the first national Thanksgiving observance on November 26, 1789. He did it again in 1795, only he switched the date to March.

Not until 1863, when President Lincoln proclaimed a national Thanksgiving celebration, was the observance firmly fixed by tradition on the fourth Thursday of November.

The first Thanksgiving in the fall of 1612 was not a one but a three-day celebration, devoted to eating foods that would tempt few modern appetites, and to outdoor games and feats of arms.

If you think we have it hard now, and have little to be grateful for, try to put yourself in the place of the Pilgrims.

They had little to be thankful for, from modern standards, since the bitter winter weather and diseases had reduced their numbers from 102 to 51, and their housing facilities were far from adequate.

Yet, less than a year after they landed on Plymouth Rock December 21, 1620, they had carved a few humble homes out of the wilderness and called for a service of thanks after the harvest was gathered.

Many Presidents have accompanied their Thanksgiving proclamations with messages expressing the spirit of the day.

None have done it more briefly than President Calvin Coolidge: "We have been a most favored people. We ought to be a most generous people. We have been a most blessed people. We ought to be a most thankful people."

Mrs. M. J. Regan Resigns From Local Red Cross Post

Mrs. Katherine Regan, Roberts Place, announced yesterday she is resigning from her position as financial secretary and home service worker of the Allegany Chapter American Red Cross.

Mrs. Regan has served in this capacity as one of two full-time local Red Cross employes for the past 13 years. She started in the local office in July 1943.

She came to Cumberland with her husband M. J. Regan some years ago, when he was assigned here as assistant manager of the Prudential Insurance Company. Mr. Regan retired about three years ago.

Mrs. Regan, well known throughout the city and county because of her long service with the Red Cross, had charge of all Red Cross financial records, completed regular reports to the local board and American Red Cross and as home service worker was responsible for processing and handling all claims of veterans which went through the local Red Cross office.

Before coming to Cumberland she had worked for five years with the Indiana County, Penna., Welfare Board.

She is the mother of five children, Fred Hill, a salesman at Spoerl's Garage here; Bernard Hill, in the tonnage office at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company here; Jack Hill, with the Gulf Oil Company Research Laboratory at Harmorville, Pa.; Mrs. Carol Barger, wife of Dr. N. L. Barger, local dentist, and Mrs. Frank Mulligan, now residing in Johnstown, Pa.

Mrs. Regan said her resignation will become effective on December 1. Red Cross officials said no successor has been engaged.

52 Families Get Thanksgiving Boxes

The Associated Charities yesterday distributed boxes of food to 52 needy families, according to Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary.

The baskets were provided by the annual Thanksgiving collection of canned goods and money by the Tri-Hi-Y clubs of Fort Hill and Allegany high schools.

The food supplies were delivered by city workers.

Ridgeley Lions Plan Tree Sale, Lighting Event

Sponsor Memberships In Central YMCA

Plans for Christmas activities, including the sale of Yule trees and the outdoor home lighting contest, have been completed by the Ridgeley Lions Club, according to William Knieriem, president.

The annual Christmas tree sale will get under way on December 17 and will be in charge of Eston Turner.

All members of the club will participate in the tree sale, which will be made by a house-to-house canvass.

Merchandise prizes totaling $200 will be awarded in the annual Christmas outdoor lighting contest planned over the holidays.

Eligible for prizes for the most tastefully lighted and decorated homes will be all residents of Ridgeley, Wiley Ford and Carpenters Addition.

Leon Hammond was named chairman of the contest and will be assisted by Michael Sirna and Aden L. Everstine.

Entry blanks for the contest will be available at the Ridgeley Post Office and stores of the area.

Members of the club, at a meeting Tuesday night, voted to change the meeting nights to the first and fourth Mondays of each month at 6:45 p.m. in the Perabee Lounge.

The club also voted to sponsor membership in Central YMCA to four Ridgeley High School boys.

Census Shows Fewer Farms But More County Acreage

Allegany County had fewer farms in 1954 than four years earlier but more county farm land was in farms last year than in 1950, according to the preliminary 1954 census of agriculture released by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The paradoxical figures show 864 farms in 1954 to 974 in 1950 but 124,811 acres in farms last year compared with 122,200 acres four years earlier. The average size of farms went up from 125.5 acres in 1950 to 144.5 acres last year.

This agriculture census also estimates the value of land and buildings on Allegany County farms as at $10,407 per farm last year, more than $2,000 above the $8,179 average of 1950. The average value per acre last year was set at $79.08 compared with $53.29 four years before.

Figures included in the census reports show the dominance of small farms in Allegany County. The census shows that 18,340 acres of cropland was harvested in 1954 which is below the 19,992 acres reported for 1949.

Of the 713 farms which reported harvesting cropland last year, 321 had only one to nine acres. There were 132 between 10 and 19 acres, 69 between 20 and 29 acres, 90 between 30 and 49 acres, 70 between 50 and 99 acres, 26 between 100 and 199 acres and only five harvesting more than 200 acres. In all categories below 100 acres there were fewer farms reported for 1954 than for 1949. The 100-to-199 acre group went up from 23 in 1949 to 26 last year while the above 200-acre category remained stationary at five.

Another portion of the census shows that most Allegany County farmers have some other source of income than farming. Some 497 farm operators report that other income of the family exceeds the value of agricultural products sold. There were 517 operators who reported working off the farm, some 392 of them for 100 days or more in 1954. Of the farm operators reporting 717 said they reside on the farm they operate and only 50 do not.

Stores, Banks, Offices To Close For Thanksgiving

Local stores, banks, and public offices will close today in observance of Thanksgiving.

The Court House, Board of Education offices, and Library will mark the holiday as well as offices in the Post Office building, Union Street Building, and City Hall.

2 Youths Face Theft Hearings

Two teen-age youths who were picked up Tuesday night for theft of 100 pounds of copper wire, about 24 batteries and several gallons of paint from George C. Smith of Lafayette Avenue in October will be given a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrates Court Friday.

Lt. James E. Van of the Cumberland Police Department, said the pair, Donald Swanger, 18, of 119 Roberts Street, and Albert Rockwell, 18, of 612 Virginia Avenue, admitted the thefts last night while being questioned by city detectives.

The thefts took place over several weeks from Smith Shows, a carnival owned by George Smith, Lt. Van said.

Work Under Way On West Side Flood Levee

Forms Being Placed For Ridgeley Wall

Work on the West Cumberland levee is under way, according to Rex. E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers on the $17,000,000 Cumberland - Ridgeley flood protection project.

The levee is one of several planned during the current contract being constructed by the E. J. Albrecht Company, of Chicago.

Fill for the earth levee is being hauled over the old Blue Bridge, which was taken out of service recently when the new interstate bridge was opened.

The old span is to be removed during the course of the work on the Section I of Potomac River Channel Improvement.

Wall Being Built

The contractor this week started laying 42 and 48-inch combined sewer pipes in East Ridgeley, near the site of the future pumping station.

Work has also started on a sluice gate at Lehigh Street, on the West Side for a conduit which will pass through the new levee.

The contractor is expected to begin pouring concrete for the floodwall soon.

Is Accident Free

The interlocking steel piling has been driven to within a few inches of the railroad ties, and is designed to prevent flood water from running in back of the flood wall.

Sand bags would also be piled on top of the piling in case high water threatened.

Similar cut-off piling has been driven at the approaches to the Western Maryland bridges on the Potomac River.

There has been no lost time due to accidents, nor any property damage serious enough to report, since the work began on June 6.

Local Painter Being Held For Embezzlement

A 60-year-old former treasurer of a Cumberland labor union is being held in Allegany County Jail on charges of embezzling $482.98 from the local over a period of two years while he was in office.

Leonard E. Pitts, 138 Polk Street, was given a preliminary hearing on the charge in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday and Magistrate Donald W. Mason declared the state had sufficient evidence to hold Pitts for the January term of the grand jury.

Mason then set bond at $1,000 on the charge, which was preferred by Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police and acting county investigator. The defendant was taken to jail in default of the bond.

Sgt. Baker told the court at the hearing that Pitts had admitted having taken the money during his tenure as treasurer of Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, Local No. 947, from February of 1953 to December of 1954.

Evidence was presented to show that Pitts took money from the local while collecting dues and making deposits for the organization. The man, who told the court he had been employed as a painter for about 30 years, took the money in varying amounts from $1 to $85 at different times, police said.

He had been granted time to make restitution, Pitts told Magistrate Mason, but he had not been working lately and was unable to pay back the amount he took from the labor union.

Special Bus To Be In Use For Game

The Cumberland Transit Lines announced yesterday that a special bus will be on the Cresaptown run today for the convenience of fans who want to attend the Fort Hill-Allegany football game.

The bus will leave Cresaptown at 12:30 p. m., and will make the return trip from Baltimore Street to Cresaptown at 5:20, returning from Cresaptown again at 5:40 p. m.

Trash Fire Reported

Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company extinguished a trash fire near Allegany Instrument Company building, located in the old Wills Mountain Inn, early last night. The firemen's truck was reported to have broken down on the way to answer the call. The fire was extinguished with no damage.

County Jail Planning Turkey Dinner Today

A turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, will be served at noon today to prisoners in Allegany County Jail.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir yesterday said some 24 prisoners are lodged in the jail and will be served the turkey dinner.

Thanksgiving Displays Basic And Universal Traditions

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

Although Thanksgiving Day generally, throughout this country, is considered an American tradition, in actuality it is as old as the need to worship and is a rite known to every culture. It dates back to the beginning of time, when the earliest people made sacrifices of one kind or another to the gods of their particular cultures . . . in an effort to humble themselves and express gratitude.

Many nations set aside a special day for Thanksgiving, and in almost every present-day civilization, at some time in each year or calendar period, there is some festival of thanksgiving.

However, in the United States Thanksgiving Day is a legal holiday.

It was President Lincoln, history reminds us, who tethered the nation's roving Thanksgiving. It had showed up in eight different months. For some unexplained reason, however, it settled far more often on Thursday than on any other day. Records of the Pilgrims' first harvest festival in the autumn of 1621 do not specify particular dates. But since feasting lasted for three consecutive days, there seems to be a fair (almost 50-50) chance that one of these days must have been Thursday.

Although other colonies adopted the custom, Thanksgiving remained a local on-and-off affair, much like present day bake sales, amateur contests and queen crownings, until about the time of the Revolution. It was the Continental Congress which designated annual days of thanks for victories throughout the war.

In 1789, Elias Boudinot, member from New Jersey, rose in the new Congress and proposed that the President recommend a day of Thanksgiving for the establishment of the Constitution of the United States.

However, the record portrays that states-righters protested violently. But the resolution carried and George Washington, in setting aside the last Thursday in November 1789, became the first to proclaim a nationwide Thanksgiving.

It was six years before President Washington proclaimed another, this time on February 19, 1795.

President John Adams called for two, in May 1798 and April 1799. President Jefferson disdained such a "monarchial practice." However, President Madison renewed the observance in August 1812, in September 1813, in January 1814, and in April 1815.

For nearly half a century after that, 47 years to be exact, the Congress and the President each year left Thanksgiving up to the states.

An interesting fact that parents could tell their children is that there might never have been a national holiday such as is being observed today had it not been for the lady who wrote "Mary Had A Little Lamb."

This philanthropic widow, Sarah Hale, mother of five, was the forceful editor of "Godey's Lady's Book," the most widely circulated periodical of its day. For almost two decades, she waged an editorial campaign for a national Thanksgiving on the last Thursday of November.

Finally, it was President Lincoln who made the move. The Great Emancipator wrote, "with humble penitence for our national perverseness and disobedience," Lincoln implored that Almighty to "heal the wounds of the nation and to restore it . . . to the full bloom of peace, harmony, tranquility and union."

President Johnson postponed Thanksgiving in 1865 until December. President Grant moved it to November 18, in the first year of his Presidency.

But every President after that, except President Franklin D. Roosevelt, faithfully followed Lincoln's tradition and proclaimed the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day.

FDR's third Thursday Thanksgiving Day lasted only three years, for in December 1941, Congress pegged the nation's Thanksgiving once more to the fourth Thursday of November. But the President is still empowered to proclaim it.

Most Presidents, it might be interesting to note, have always skirted political issues in their Thanksgiving proclamations. Some have achieved great eloquence.

President Rutherford B. Hayes wrote, "The completed circle of summer and winter, seedtime and harvest, has brought us the accustomed season at which a religious people celebrates, with praise and thanksgiving, the enduring mercy of Almighty God."

During the panic of 1893, President Grover Cleveland's proclamation carefully gave thanks for past, rather than present bounties.

It so annoyed Davis H. Waite, governor of Colorado, that he wrote his own proclamation detailing the things not to be thankful for, such as heavy farm mortgages, unemployment of miners, and a drop in values of land and property.

Another governor, Sylvester Pennoyer of Oregon also rebelled. President Cleveland's November 30 Thanksgiving was too close to Christmas to suit the westerner, so he set Oregon's day a week earlier. But it is reliably recorded that Mrs. Pennoyer disagreed, so the governor's family ate two turkey dinners.

In Novembers with five Thursdays, and this can happen, a few states have celebrated on the final instead of the fourth Thursday. In Texas in 1950, Governor Shivers proclaimed both the fourth and fifth Thursdays. In typical Texan fashion he wrote, "Texas has enough to be thankful for to have two Thanksgiving Days."

In casting about on this Thanksgiving Day, when the nation is not engaged in a shooting war, when prosperity almost everywhere is bursting at the seams, and the future looks brighter than at any time in history, maybe Governor Shivers, Texan or not, may have had something there.

Next year November will have five Thursdays. Perhaps two Thanksgivings for the other 47 states and territories might not be a bad idea at that. And of course Texas will be included, because it already has set the precedent.

Census Shows Fewer Farms But More County Acreage

Allegany County had fewer farms in 1954 than four years earlier but more county farm land was in farms last year than in 1950, according to the preliminary 1954 census of agriculture released by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The paradoxical figures show 864 farms in 1954 to 974 in 1950 but 124,811 acres in farms last year compared with 122,200 acres four years earlier. The average size of farms went up from 125.5 acres in 1950 to 144.5 acres last year.

This agriculture census also estimates the value of land and buildings on Allegany County farms as at $10,407 per farm last year, more than $2,000 above the $8,179 average of 1950. The average value per acre last year was set at $79.08 compared with $53.29 four years before.

Figures included in the census reports show the dominance of small farms in Allegany County. The census shows that 18,340 acres of cropland was harvested in 1954 which is below the 19,992 acres reported for 1949.

Of the 713 farms which reported harvesting cropland last year, 321 had only one to nine acres. There were 132 between 10 and 19 acres, 69 between 20 and 29 acres, 90 between 30 and 49 acres, 70 between 50 and 99 acres, 26 between 100 and 199 acres and only five harvesting more than 200 acres. In all categories below 100 acres there were fewer farms reported for 1954 than for 1949. The 100-to-199 acre group went up from 23 in 1949 to 26 last year while the above 200-acre category remained stationary at five.

Another portion of the census shows that most Allegany County farmers have some other source of income than farming. Some 497 farm operators report that other income of the family exceeds the value of agricultural products sold. There were 517 operators who reported working off the farm, some 392 of them for 100 days or more in 1954. Of the farm operators reporting 717 said they reside on the farm they operate and only 50 do not.

Work Under Way On West Side Flood Levee

Forms Being Placed For Ridgeley Wall

Work on the West Cumberland levee is under way, according to Rex. E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers on the $17,000,000 Cumberland - Ridgeley flood protection project.

The levee is one of several planned during the current contract being constructed by the E. J. Albrecht Company, of Chicago.

Fill for the earth levee is being hauled over the old Blue Bridge, which was taken out of service recently when the new interstate bridge was opened.

The old span is to be removed during the course of the work on the Section I of Potomac River Channel Improvement.

Wall Being Built

The contractor this week started laying 42 and 48-inch combined sewer pipes in East Ridgeley, near the site of the future pumping station.

Work has also started on a sluice gate at Lehigh Street, on the West Side for a conduit which will pass through the new levee.

Also started was forming work for the foundation of the 600-foot Ridgeley flood wall, at the upstream end of the project in West Virginia.

The contractor is expected to begin pouring concrete for the floodwall soon.

Completed is the placing of sheet piling cut-off across the Western Maryland yards in Ridgeley.

Is Accident Free

The interlocking steel piling has been driven to within a few inches of the railroad ties, and is designed to prevent flood water from running in back of the flood wall.

Sand bags would also be piled on top of the piling in case high water threatened.

Similar cut-off piling has been driven at the approaches to the Western Maryland bridges on the Potomac River.

There has been no lost time due to accidents, nor any property damage serious enough to report, since the work began on June 6.

Local Painter Being Held For Embezzlement

A 60-year-old former treasurer of a Cumberland labor union is being held in Allegany County Jail on charges of embezzling $482.98 from the local over a period of two years while he was in office.

Leonard E. Pitts, 138 Polk Street, was given a preliminary hearing on the charge in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday and Magistrate Donald W. Mason declared the state had sufficient evidence to hold Pitts for the January term of the grand jury.

Mason then set bond at $1,000 on the charge, which was preferred by Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police and acting county investigator. The defendant was taken to jail in default of the bond.

Sgt. Baker told the court at the hearing that Pitts had admitted having taken the money during his tenure as treasurer of Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, Local No. 947, from February of 1953 to December of 1954.

Evidence was presented to show that Pitts took money from the local while collecting dues and making deposits for the organization. The man, who told the court he had been employed as a painter for about 30 years, took the money in varying amounts from $1 to $85 at different times, police said.

He had been granted time to make restitution. Pitts told Magistrate Mason, but he had not been working lately and was unable to pay back the amount he took from the labor union.

Thanksgiving Displays Basic And Universal Traditions

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

Although Thanksgiving Day generally, throughout this country, is considered an American tradition, in actuality it is as old as the need to worship and is a rite known to every culture. It dates back to the beginning of time, when the earliest people made sacrifices of one kind or another to the gods of their particular cultures . . . in an effort to humble themselves and express gratitude.

Many nations set aside a special day for Thanksgiving, and in almost every present-day civilization, at some time in each year or calendar period, there is some festival of thanksgiving.

However, in the United States Thanksgiving Day is a legal holiday.

It was President Lincoln, history reminds us, who tethered the nation's roving Thanksgiving. It had showed up in eight different months. For some unexplained reason, however, it settled far more often on Thursday than on any other day. Records of the Pilgrims' first harvest festival in the autumn of 1621 do not specify particular dates. But since feasting lasted for three consecutive days, there seems to be a fair (almost 50-50) chance that one of these days must have been Thursday.

Although other colonies adopted the custom, Thanksgiving remained a local on-and-off affair, much like present day bake sales, amateur contests and queen crownings, until about the time of the Revolution. It was the Continental Congress which designated annual days of thanks for victories throughout the war.

In 1789, Elias Boudinot, member from New Jersey, rose in the new Congress and proposed that the President recommend a day of Thanksgiving for the establishment of the Constitution of the United States.

However, the record portrays that states-righters protested violently. But the resolution carried and George Washington, in setting aside the last Thursday in November 1789, became the first to proclaim a nationwide Thanksgiving.

It was six years before President Washington proclaimed another, this time on February 19, 1795.

President John Adams called for two, in May 1798 and April 1799. President Jefferson disdained such a "monarchial practice." However, President Madison renewed the observance in August 1812, in September 1813, in January 1814, and in April 1815.

For nearly half a century after that, 47 years to be exact, the Congress and the President each year left Thanksgiving up to the states.

An interesting fact that parents could tell their children is that there might never have been a national holiday such as is being observed today had it not been for the lady who wrote "Mary Had A Little Lamb."

This philanthropic widow, Sarah Hale, mother of five, was the forceful editor of "Godey's Lady's Book," the most widely circulated periodical of its day. For almost two decades, she waged an editorial campaign for a national Thanksgiving on the last Thursday of November.

Finally, it was President Lincoln who made the move. The Great Emancipator wrote, "with humble penitence for our national perverseness and disobedience," Lincoln implored that Almighty to "heal the wounds of the nation and to restore it . . . to the full bloom of peace, harmony, tranquility and union."

President Johnson postponed Thanksgiving in 1865 until December. President Grant moved it to November 18, in the first year of his Presidency.

But every President after that, except President Franklin D. Roosevelt, faithfully followed Lincoln's tradition and proclaimed the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day.

FDR's third Thursday Thanksgiving Day lasted only three years, for in December 1941, Congress pegged the nation's Thanksgiving once more to the fourth Thursday of November. But the President is still empowered to proclaim it.

Most Presidents, it might be interesting to note, have always skirted political issues in their Thanksgiving proclamations. Some have achieved great eloquence.

President Rutherford B. Hayes wrote, "The completed circle of summer and winter, seedtime and harvest, has brought us the accustomed season at which a religious people celebrates, with praise and thanksgiving, the enduring mercy of Almighty God."

During the panic of 1893, President Grover Cleveland's proclamation carefully gave thanks for past, rather than present bounties.

It so annoyed Davis H. Waite, governor of Colorado, that he wrote his own proclamation detailing the things not to be thankful for, such as heavy farm mortgages, unemployment of miners, and a drop in values of land and property.

Another governor, Sylvester Pennoyer of Oregon also rebelled. President Cleveland's November 30 Thanksgiving was too close to Christmas to suit the westerner, so he set Oregon's day a week earlier. But it is reliably recorded that Mrs. Pennoyer disagreed, so the governor's family ate two turkey dinners.

In Novembers with five Thursdays, and this can happen, a few states have celebrated on the final instead of the fourth Thursday. In Texas in 1950, Governor Shivers proclaimed both the fourth and fifth Thursdays. In typical Texan fashion he wrote, "Texas has enough to be thankful for to have two Thanksgiving Days."

In casting about on this Thanksgiving Day, when the nation is not engaged in a shooting war, when prosperity almost everywhere is bursting at the seams, and the future looks brighter than at any time in history, maybe Governor Shivers, Texan or not, may have had something there.

Next year November will have five Thursdays. Perhaps two Thanksgivings for the other 47 states and territories might not be a bad idea at that. And of course Texas will be included, because it already has set the precedent.
